Saved from the Grave.

I am neither an advertising physician nor a doctor of medicines but an ordinary clerk. In the prime of youth I unconsciously fell into evil habits which in a year and a half reduced me to a complete wreck. My friends often enquired from me the cause of my "breakdown", which for very shame I could not apprise them of, but secretly sent for medicine from all the famous physians whose grandiloquent advertisements resounded the newspaper world. To my ill-luck, despair and disappointment stared me in the face wherever I looked until I began to prefer death to life. The wheel of fortune, however, took a new revolution and I was suddenly called upon in July 1901, to undertake, in connection with my employment, a very dreary journey to Nepal which, dotted over with short breaks on the way, took me thirteen days to reach Khatmandoo, where I put up in a caravauserai. Adjoining to my room there had sojourned a day or two previously and aged-looking hermit who enquired from me the nature of my illness in such a loving tone that I was coaxed into a reluctant exposure of my long-hidden treasure of shameful secrets.

Taking pity upon me he scratched out two prescriptions and in accordance with his directions I prepared from herbs and vegetables some tonic pills and other necessary medicines.

GOD TO WITNESS.

Only a week's treatment cured me of all the complaints that had made my life so burdensome that I looked upon suicide as the only avenue of escape from this "living death." Although by virtue of this short treatment I considered myself entirely cured, I was obliged to observe the necessary prevention and to undergo the full course of treatment for 21 days which gave such a vigour to my deranged nervous system that it would smack of immodesty to render the proud effects in black and white. After the completion of my mission there I reached home and experimented the remaining medicine upon some of the hopeless cases and found it an infallible remedy for all sorts of nervine diseases and every kind of general physical debility. On the persistent demands of some of my prudent and philanthropic friends and with a view to public weal I advertised this medicine for those unhappy creatures who had incapacitated themselves for the healthy enjoyment of life. The price advertised hardly covers the expenses of its preparation and advertising operations.

Price 1 Phial of liniment Rs. 2-8 } excluding postal
Price 1 box Pills Rs. 1-8 } expenses, i. e., As. 6.

Price 1 full box containing 1 phial of liniment and three boxes of pills Rs. 7, including transit expenses.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.

One pill to be taken in the morning and one in the evening with fresh water or cow milk. Liniment to be applied once in 24 hours either during the day time or in the night.

The medicine is absolutely free from all Poisonous or Mercurial elements.

This peerless medicine has benefitted thousands of people mentioned in the list of whose names along with others make a voluminous book in itself Some of these men do not allow us to insert their full testimonials and hence we cannot do so but at the same time this is published only with a view to give currency to this rare medicine.

TESTIMONIALS.

BAWA SARUP SINGH, E.A.C., LAHORE.

Your medicine did much good to the patient. His bodily vigour has also considerably improved. His sorrow-stricken face now beams with glow of treasure. Without doubt your medicine is an elixir.

GHULAM QADIR KHAN, AKOLA. BERAR.

I once sent your pills and liniment and found them extremely beneficial. Send two phials of liniment per V.P.P. for the son of our village headman.

ABDUL AZIZ, MERCHANT. MOUNT ROAD, DARJEELING.

In conformity with your directions the medicine was used for 21 days which has transformed me into a hale and hearty man. If it pleases God would try my best to secure the sale of medicine which deserves appreciation. I thank you thousands of times.

ONE CERTIFICATE WORTH ONE LAC OF RUPEES.

NAWAB SAADAT ALI KHAN, CHIEF OF THE PUNJAB, LAHORE.

A relative of mine had lost his vigour from the last six years. In addition to the various advertised medicines he had made use of many prescriptions of the specific nature but none of these remedies did him any lasting good. At last he resorted to the treatment of Sh. Ghulam Ahmed which brought wonders. The patient completely recovered in two weeks. It is indeed wonderful how such an old disease was eradicated in a couple of weeks' treatment. I accordingly certify that this medicine of magical effect deserves appreciation. It is boon for those who stand in need of it.

(Sd.) Saadat Ali Khan.

ZUBDATAL HUKMA HAKIM HAUZIC PIR AHMED SHAH SINDHI, Diploma Holder, Punjab University, Lahore, Physician to Rajas of the Punjab

The medicine of Sh. Ghulam Ahmed of Moholla PirGillanian, Lahore, produces an enviable effect upon general sexual debility. No praise overestimates the wonderful effects of this medicine upon the diseases detailed above. The liniment never fails to produce the desired effect without at the same time causing any skin eruption.

FOUR PARTS OUT

It was not long ago that our Mysteries of the Mogul Court had seen the light of day. It is also based on the principal events during the reign of Emperor Jahangir, but this book.—The Mysteries of the Mogul Darbar—is replete with mysteries that occurred during the reign of Emperor Shah Jahan. The Empress Nurjahan at the time of Jahangir was the lady paramount and exercised unrestrained influence throughout the Empire. The reader would find now what inhuman actions did Roshenara, the daughter of Emperor Shah Jahan commit, only to become the second Nurjahan.

No one has yet made an attempt to place before the public the Mysteries,—secret consultations, private and public executions,—deep laid plots, horrible hair splitting incidents—within the labyrinths of labyrinths; secret passages, rooms, doors and windows in the celestial palaces of the great Mogul, and also undreamt of luxuries, and pleasures,—the flow of the vast wealth quite unimaginable. The Unique book being a HISTORICAL ROMANCE will give flesh and blood to this skeleton and place the Mogul Emperors, their great Begums and their innumerable Bandis together with the great Amirs, Omrahs, Mansabdars and Rajput Rajas in their living forms. Please enlist your name early.

Rs. 7,000/- F.O.R. BOMBAY.

BORN—to the purple by virtue of its ancestry, the Maibohm to-day leads the motor world in light six development. Back in the 80's of the nineteenth century the Maibohm artists began coach designing. The experience gained through this period, combined with modern engineering skill, has produced a design so appealing and a performance so dependable that this car more than maintains the traditions of Maibohm—the lightest good six made.

MAIBOHM

Comparison—brings proper appreciation of Maibohm value. Look for other cars of such masterly coach design with valve-in-head power, stirring performance and rousing get-away. Look for roomy lounge-like comfort with real Spanish leather cushioning. What other car of equal wheelbase has four square doors? Compare the specifications part by part—compare the appearance—the performance—and you will better appreciate the moderate price of Maibohm—the lightest good six made.

All-Round Value—marks the Maibohm. Some cars are purchased on appearance, some on price, and some on performance. To get All-Round Value you must combine all these features. Maibohm has the beauty of old school coachwork, a surprisingly moderate price, and the snappy sort of performance which makes an owner itch for competition on the road. And better still, the All-Round Value is Lasting Value in Maibohm—the lightest good six made.

(5 Reels—5,000 feet)

The absorbing tale of a beautiful woman who was willing to do anything for her husband and did too much! How in the crisis she turned her biggest weakness into her greatest strength makes a picture you won't forget for many a day!

A UNIVERSAL GEM!

Husbands:— Would YOU let your wife make love to another man to further your ambitions?

Wives:— Do YOU consider it right for a married woman to make love to another man for the sake of her Husband's ambitions?

"A WONDERFUL WIFE"

A broken heart is Cupid's best materials. In "A Wonderful Wife" the husband watches his wife vamping another man and then he's easily caught in the spider's web himself!

Is it only a sense of duty when a wife offers to vamp her husband's enemy to help smooth things over? Or is it something he had better be worried about? See "A Wonderful Wife" with Miss du Pont, the exquisite blonde of "Foolish Wives."

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

Oct. 6.

A further advance of 45 points was reporte in New York futures. The Market advanced on better spot demand and trade and straddle buying. Messrs. Umrigar and Vesugars' New York friends Messrs. A. Norden & Co. wire under date 5th instant as under :—

"Bearish growing peace movement reached. Market looks higher. Dry goods markets strong and advancing."

The position of the market is strong, and we think well of buying at present level rather than going short.

Re. September Oomra corner. In the meeting yesterday of most of the original tenders, Marwari brokers, and interested traders it was unanimously agreed that to save the trade and the present crisis of the Bazar owing to the failure of the Bull Clique all the sellers of actual cotton should buy back same and settle their contracts at Rs. 370, and the Bazar parties should pay Cash difference between Rs. 370 and the delivery order price to the original tenderer of cotton.

Our market for ready cotton should seme improved demand yesterday. Japan ... porters are reported to have purchased about 7,000 bales of Berar and Central Provinces from the muccadums of defaulting Khelawala.

At Colaba the market opened at Rs. 428 for F. G. M. G. Broach April/May and advanced to Rs. 434 on buying by the Japanese Houses and closed at Rs. 432 at 6.30 p.m. Fine M. G. Oomra December/January opened at Rs. 378 and advanced to Rs. 382½ and closed at Rs. 382 at 6-30 p.m. F. G. M. G. Bengal December/January was Rs. 321.

FINANCE.

There is no change to report regarding the easy conditions ruling in the money market. The call money rate is still about 2 per cent and the deposit rate about 3½ per cent to 4 per cent for short deposits. The Imperial Bank cash balance is down by Rs. 93. lakhs due to a decrease in the Government deposits of Rs. 42.38 lakhs; the other deposits have increased by Rs. 30.75 lakhs. The percentage of cash to liabilities is 41.34. The Bank-rate remains unchanged at 4 per cent. Inquiry in the market for gilt-edged securities is well sustained.

This week's sale of Treasury bills by tender is for Rs. 1,50,00,000 ... Government have also offered nine and twelve months' bills to the extent of 50 lakhs. Owing to the continued disturbed conditions in the cotton and share markets, Banks are cautious regarding further advances.

EXCHANGE.

Exchange on London opened firm round 1s. 3 1/2 d. and improved during the week to 1s. 3 19/32 d. A fair amount of bills was placed both here and in Calcutta. The settlement for import of bullion was on a limited scale due to the rise in the price of gold in London.

American exchange on London opened round dollars 4.37 but subsequently improved and closes steady at dollars 4.42½ due to the easier political situation in the Near East. The German mark has again taken a downward plunge and is quoted round 9400 to the pound sterling. The undertone of the exchange market continues healthy.

GOLD.

Gold opened round Rs. 27/7 but steadily declined to Rs. 27/1 for ready delivery. The three main factors which have operated to bring about this depreciation are (1) steadier sterling exchange, (2) improvement in the American exchange and (3) the heavy stock of some eight lakhs of tolas available for this settlement which is now in progress. The off-take during the week averaged about 15,000 tolas a day.

SILVER.

Silver opened steady round Rs. 93 but the rate suffered a decline of about one rupee and closes at Rs. 91-13. China was a continued seller during the early part of the week both here and in London. The Shanghai rate fluctuated between 3 s. 5 5/8 d. and 3 s. 5 15/16 d. but closes easy at 3 s. 5½ d. The off-take averaged about 70 bars a day and the stock is estimated at about 4,000 bars.

SHARES.

There was only one working day on the Stock Exchange during the week under review. The prices of Central Indias, Swadeshi and Shapurjis suffered a sharp decline due to heavy unloading by bulls but the majority of cotton mill shares continued steady with limited business passing.

Central Indias dropped from Rs. 4,680 to Rs. 4,000, Swadeshis from Rs. 4,800 to Rs. 4,150 and Shapurjis from Rs. 270 to Rs. 210. Prominent among those shares which showed an advance were Bombay Dyeing which improved from Rs. 1,330 to Rs. 1,345, Cres-

HIGH COURT.

APPELLATE SIDE.

RESERVED COMPT. FOR EUROPEANS & ANGLO-INDIANS.

JUDGES' DIFFER.

REFERENCE TO THIRD JUDGE.

The King-Emperor
vs.
Narayan Krishna Gogte.

(Before the Acting Chief Justice Sir Lallubhai Shah and Justice Crump.)

This was a reference by the District Magistrate of East Khandesh.

The facts material to the case are fully given in the following judgments:—

The Acting Chief Justice observed:—

This is a reference by the District Magistrate of East Khandesh recommending that the conviction and sentence should be set aside. The accused was convicted by the First Class Magistrate of Jalgaon City under section 109 of the Indian Railways Act for having entered a compartment which was reserved for Europeans and Anglo-Indians in a passenger train. The accused had a third class ticket to travel from Parpora to Bhusaval by the down passenger train on the 17th Feb. 1922 and he entered the compartment in question which was in fact vacant. The learned Magistrate was inclined to hold that the Railway Company had no power to reserve the compartment in that manner, but following the ruling in Emperor vs. Brybasive (I. L. R. 42 All P. 327) he held that the Railway Company had the interest right to reserve compartments in that manner and convicted the accused and sentenced him to pay a fine of Rs. 5. The accused applied to the District Magistrate who has made a reference to this court. The point that we have to consider is whether the compartment such as was reserved in this case could be legally reserved for class of passengers without reference to the question whether there were any actual passengers of that class travelling or known to be intending to travel by that train. I have stated the question in this form, though in this particular case we are concerned with the reserved accommodation provided in a third class compartment in a passenger train for Europeans and Anglo-Indians as in my opinion that is the question underlying the reference. It is not suggested that there is any statutory provision or any rule under section 47 of the Indian Railways Act which authorises this kind of reservation. It appears to have been done in pursuance of "Working Instructions" issued by Railway Company, a copy of which has been furnished to us by Mr. Binning appearing for the Company. I refer to it why for the purpose of showing that the crown and the Company rely upon the interest powers of the Company and not upon any statutory provision or rule. I have considered the arguments urged before us on behalf of the crown the company and the accused and I have also considered the decisions of different courts on the point, which are or opposed to the view which I take of this question. In the first place I feel quite clear that the powers of the Company are subject to certain statutory limitations and must be determined in the light of the scheme of the Act so far as it bears upon the point in question. A penal provision ought to be strictly construed and it is for the prosecution to make out that the compartment could be legally reserved in the manner it was reserved on this occasion. The company has full power to regulate its traffic within the limits allowed by law. Section 42 (2) provides the limitation in question, and it is for the prosecution to establish that the limitation has not been transgressed in this case. I do not feel any doubt that the section refers to all traffic which includes passenger traffic (see sec. 3 (11). This point is in my opinion, sufficiently dealt with in Vishvanath Ganesh vs. G. I. P. Railway Company (I. L. R. Bombay 13 24). It is true that no suit can be instituted or proceeding taken for anything done of any omission made by the Railway Administration in violation or contravention of any provision of Chap. But I do not see how a criminal court is relieved of its obligation to consider this question so far as it is relevent in determining whether a particular offence is committed or not. In my opinion it is a question of fact to be determined in each case whether the particular accommodation reserved for a section of the travelling public to the exclusion of the rest of the public involves any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to or in favour of any particular person or description of traffic in any respect whatever or subjects any particular person or description to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatever. I readily concede that the powers of a railway administration are very wide so long as it does not transgress the limitation which the statute has imposed in the interests of the public. But where it exercises its powers in a manner, which may appear to involve some kind of preference, it is open to the administration to have an appropriate rule under 547 which would remove the doubt and difficulty to a large extent. For instance if there were a rule authorising the Railway Administration to reserve accommodation for Europeans and Anglo-Indians travelling in the third class within such limits as may be prescribed the onus of proving that such a rule was inconsistent with the provisions of the Act would be heavily upon the party asserting it. When a rule is framed under S. 47, it would imply that the Governor-General in Council is satisfied as to its need and property.

In the absence of such a rule, we have to consider it as a question of fact on the evidence in this case. In doing so it is necessary to bear in mind the provisions relating to carriage of passenger's in the Act. It is provided in in S. 68 that "every person desirous of travelling on a railway shall upon payment of his fare, be supplied with a ticket specifying the class, the fare and the range of his journey." S. 67 (1) provide that "fares shall be deemed to be accepted and tickets to be issued subbject to there being room available in the train for which the tickets are issued," and that in case a person to whom a ticket has been issued does not get accommodation, the fare is to be refunded. Thus it appears to me that a person who purchases a ticket shows beyond reasonable doubt that he is desirous of travelling by the particular train and is anxious to secure accommodation. If he finds a compartment vacant, and cannot travel by it he is put to an undue disadvantage, if the vacant room is kept apart for any person who has not shown any desire to travel. The trial Magistrate has remarked in his judgment with reference to third class passengers that "they are now a days getting little accommodation in crowded trains even though these reserved compartments are seen to go empty". In fact the learned Magistrate goes so far as to think that even a rule if framed would probably be considered to be inconsistent with the Act. I am not concerned with the question whether a rule, if framed, would be consistent with the provision of the Act, and I do not express any opinion as to that. It would be premature and improper to suggest any opinion in anticipation about a rule which does not exist. But as regards the question of fact has observation is entirely in consonance with the evidence in the case. The relevant evidence on this point is quoted in the letter of reference by the District Magistrate and is contained in the cross examination of the Railway police constable and Guard. It clearly establishes that the overcrowding is not a rare occurence whole a compartment, which would accommodate nearly 25 passengers remains practically vacant what appears to me to be a probable result of this manner of reserving accommodation for one class of passengers is that passenger outside that class would be unable to travel by a particular train for want of room on account of overcrowding, wherens there would be room in the train for a person of that class who may not have expressed any desire to travel and who may not travel at all by that train. That is a result which according to the evidence is not uncommon. When a compartment is reserved in pursuance of general instructions, leading to such results, it cannot be said to be legally reserved so as to constitute an entry therein an offence punishable under sec. 109. The accident that a particular train was not crowded and that there was room for the accused on that particular occasion elsewhere in the train does not seem to me to afford any answer to the real question in the case. If the evidence in this case is accepted, it shows that the execrcise of this power involves the result that some passengers outside the class of passengers for whom the compartment is reserved would be left over without any accommodation in the train—whereas a passenger of that particular class at that station or any of the following stations would get accommodation, and if there be no such passenger, the compartment would remain unoccupied.

It is also a matter of consideration that while the average space theoretically allowed to the third class passengers would be and should be the same for all, the space in fact allowed to passengers of a particular class, would be much greater, when a compartment is reserved for that class for according to the evidence, the average number of passengers of that class, would be very small, and a compartment for 25 passengers would be practically reserved for that small number. This also indirectly but effectively introduces an element of preferential treatment. I desire to make it clear that I do not put any technical or narrow meaning upon the word 'passenger' as used in S. 109 I. include within its meaning a class of passengers: but I do not think that it could include within its scope, any persons representing a class or a section of the public without the slightest reference to their desire or intention to travel by that train previously expressed or known to the Railway Company. I think that a reservation of that kind is apt to involve a transgression of the limitation laid down in S. 42 (2) and may be shown by evidence to involve that result in a particular case. That appears to me to have been shown in this case to the satisfaction of the trial magistrate; and the District Magistrate also takes the same view.

I have carefully considered the reported cases on this point, and I am unable to agree with the view that such a reservation for a class or section of the public is necessarily legal. It may be illegal as transgressing the limits prescribed by S. 42 (2) as it has been shown in this case.

I think, therefore, that the conviction and sentenced ought to be set aside. I would order accordingly fine, if paid, to be refunded."

DIFFERING JUDMENT.

Justice Crump in his differing judgment observed:—

"This is a reference by the District Magistrate East Khandesh in the case of Narayan Krishna Gogate who was tried by the Magistrate F. C. Jalgaon City for the offence punishable under section 109 of the Indian Railways Act (Act IX of 1890) and fined rupees five:—

In making this reference the District Magistrate has relied on two decisions of this court in Vishwanath vs. G. I. P. Railway (XXIII Bombay L. R. page 909). That decision proceeded on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction by reason of section 41 of the Indian Railways Act and the remarks cited are therefore obiter. There is thus no decision of this court precisely upon the point before us. There is however a decision of the Allahabad High Court, (Emperor V Brijbasi Lal I. L. R 42 Allhabad P. 327) which on the facts is indistinguishable from the present case and a decision of the Madras High Court. In Re, Konirsm (I. L. R. 45 Madras P. 215) which is also directly in point through it deals with other questions with which we are not here concerned The first of these decisions is no doubt open to question as pointed out in the decison of this court already cited, but in my opinion the decision of Oldfield J. in the Madras case contains a clear and accurate exposition of the law on the point before us, and I am content to follow it.

Stated shortly the law is as follows:—The Railway Company can deal with their rolling stock as they please subject to any duties or restrictions imposed by the Legislative. We are here concerned with restrictions imposed by the Madras Railways Act 1890 and section 42 of that Act is the only section which falls to considered.

The question is whether there has been "undue preference" within the meaning of that term as used in S. 42 (2). The term is familiar in England, but the English cases turn almost entirely a questions of differential treatment in the matter of rates—this much however may be said that there is nothing illegal in showing preference so long as it is not "undue preference". Further that it is a question of fact in each case whether the preference shown is or is not "undue".

The accused this department knowing that it was reserved by the Railway Company for European and Anglo-Indian passengers. He did so because he objected to racial distinctions (see his plea and examination dated 8/4/22. "Prima facie" his act was an offence under section 109 of the Indian Railway Act. It is open to him to show in his defence that the preference shown to the class of passengers indicated was undue preference, but that was not the meaning of his plea. That plea in no way turned on the extent of the accommodation reserved for this class. ... however, the plea of undue preference is more out by the evidence elect may be given to it.

It is reasonable to assume that the Railway Company know their business best and they will not reserve for any class accommodation beyond what is reasonable. Certainly I see no reason to suppose that Railway Companies are inclined to be over liberal in the matter of accommodation. It would not pay them. The general instruction which the Company has issued in this case is that are compartment shall be reserved for the class of passengers in question on all long distance trains. In order to determine whether with reference to this particular train the preference is undue it would be necessary to know matters on which the record is silent. I take it that there is no undue preference unless there is prejudice to be. To determine this question for this train generally speaking it would be convenient to know what is the total average number of passengers, what is the average number of special class, what is the accommodation reserved for this special class, and what is the accommodation available for other passengers. There all that is known is that the compartment reserved would hold 20 to 25 passengers. Without some such data as I have indicated (in my opinion) impossible to say that generally speaking there is undue preference. As to this general aspect of the question, the evidence on the record gives little assistance. That this compartment is often empty does not go for unless it is shown that other passengers have not sufficient accommodation. The only evidence of overcrowding is contained in the statement of the guard which is as follows: "Except on bazaar days the passengers are not over crowded" with reference to the day of the alleged offence the evidence is against the plea set up. The accused did not complain that he was in any way prejudiced. The guard says that the accused complains that the board indicating the reservation of the compartment was "an insult" to him. That view of the matter is quite understandable but it has nothing to do with the question of undue preference. Indeed it should plainly enough that the accused's grievance would have been equally acute had the accommodation reserved been adequate for one passenger only. I fully appreciate that aspect of the question, but I am not concerned with it. It does not affect the legal aspect of the matter. For the rest both the guard and constable Khandu says that on this day there was ample accommodation elsewhere. This being so I fail to see how the plea of undue preference can be made out. Had it been established that owing to this reservation the class indicated find accommodation while other passengers cannot find accommodation the case might be different but there is no evidence to that effect, nor indeed is there any evidence worth the name... of overcrowding in general. I would decline to interfere and direct the record and proceedings to be retarned."

As there was difference of opinion between the Acting Chief Justice Sir Lallubhai Shah and Justice Crump the case was ordered to be put before Justice Marten.

The Government Pleader appeared for the Crown.

Mr. R. V. Kane appeared for the accused.

Mr. Binning instructed by Messrs. Little and Co. appeared for the Railway Company.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE EXCELSIOR THEATRE.

"IOLANTHE."

With the presentation of "Iolanthe" at the Excelsior Theatre last night, the J. C. Williamson Opera Co., gave us their fourth programme for the week. "Iolanthe" may not have obtained quite so much popularity as "The Mikado" or "The Gondoliers," but it is nevertheless one of the most delightful of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, and the Company are to be congratulated upon the excellent manner in which they carried the play through. The Immortals with their pretty costumes and scenic efforts were superb, while among the Mortals, Mr. Charles Workman as "The Lord Chancellor" was the heart and soul of the play. Miss Patti Russell as "Phullis" the ward: Miss Byol Walkely as "Iolanthe"; Mr. Roy Workman as "Strephon"; Mr. Jack Ralston as Earl Mountararat"; Mr. Charles Mettam as "Earl Tolloller" and Miss Christine Lorimer as "The Fairy Queen" are all worthy of mention.

The play is being repeated to-night and at a matinee performance on Sunday. A further account will be found in Theatre and Cinema notes in "The Sunday Chronicle."

WEST-END CINEMA.

When a young girl thinks of getting married these days she has to think of a new angle on the double-harness business, namely, that a wife isn't any kind of a wife at all unless she can pump well enough to help her husband along in his work. When life gets monotonous trouble gets plentiful. That is a simple way of stating an old adage that is illustrated in "A Wonderful Wife," the Universal Special Attraction which brings Miss du Pont as a star to the West-End Cinema, this week. The picture is based on the experiences of a man and his wife who went to live at an army post on an island off the coast of Africa. Things were so "dead" there that the wife simply had to vamp the commandante to keep from being idle, and the result of a few months' continuation of this situation is high proof drama of the kind that puts headlines in the newspapers.

CINEMA MAJESTIC.

Cinema Majestic which is the home of Swadeshi pictures of quality is showing this week Bharat Cinema Film Co's. new picture "Sharmistha Devayani" apicturisation of one of the most beautiful and popular story. Sharmistha the daughter of a king is forced to be the maid of Devayani, the daughter of a brahmin, by the mischief of Indra. Devayani is rescued from being drowned in a well by king Yayati, who in turn falls in love with her and marries her. Sharnistha has to accompany Devayani to her husband's capital as her Maid. In course of time Yavati the king falls in love with Sharmistha and got three issues of her. This fact coming to the notice of Devayani, she complains of her Husband's misbehaviour to her father. Devyani's father curses Yavati, who loses his youth by force of the virtue of the curse. Devayani then realises her loss and requests her father to rejuvenate her own husband. Purva the son of Sharnistha and Yavati. Sacrifices his youth to restore his father's young looks. Puru is amply rewarded at last and his mother is again restond to her legitimate position. The picture is a brilliant success of Swadeshi Workmanship.

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN ALTERATIONS.

At the special request of His Excellency Sir George Lloyd there will be a slight change in the order of the repertoire next week in order to enable His Excellency to attend the Gilbert and Sullivan performances next Monday and Tuesday, during his brief visit to Bombay. Next Monday, 9th "Yeomen of the Guard" will be played as advertised but instead of being repeated on Tuesday, "The Pirates of Penzance" will be given; this will be repeated on Wednesday and "The Yeomen of the Guard" will again go into the bill on Thursday.

"Patience" will be played over the week end with a Reduced Price Matinee of the "The Yeoman of the Guard" on Sunday, October 15th.

THEATRE AND CINEMA.

EXCELSIOR THEATRE.

The J. C. Williamson Opera Company is still pursuing its highly successful career at the Excelsior Theatre, and during the coming week will present three more of the well known Gilbert and Sullivan operas. These are "The Yeoman of the Guard," "The Pirates of Penzance," and "Patience." All of these are very popular and will undoutedly prove an irresistable draw to Excelsior patrons who are advised on no account to miss "The Yeoman of the Guard." The great feature of this play is Mr. Charles Workman's appearance as "Jack Point." Mr. Workmans splendid study of this character is reputed to be the best ever seen. The great success which has attended the opening week of the company clearly demonstrates that the theatre-going public of Bombay will generously support any venture which gives it the fare it appreciates. The J. C. Williamson Company aims to provide an excellent evenings entertainment, and with well staged plays, tuneful music, good singing and acting of high merit it certainly comes up to our highest expectations. "Iolanthe" is being staged to-night, and a special matinee performance of the same play will be given to-morrow evening.

To-morrow night, and during the early evenings of the week, the usual picture programme will be given at the Excelsior Theatre. The chief film is entitled "Annie for spite" featuring the favourite Mary Miles Minter. There will also be a rattling good comic "Try, Try Again" and a Pathe Pictorial Gazette.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

The Big Aim at the Empire Theatre this week is a stirring tale of girl's adventures in New York, and is entitled "Her City of Dreams."

On Wednesday the 8th instant the Zoroastrian Physical Culture and Health League will hold an exhibition from 9 a. m. until 12 noon, while on the evening of the same day the Bombay symphony Orchestra will give another midweekly matinee concert when again a splendid programme of high class music will be provided. These matinees are very popular with the music lovers of the city, and the continued support of the public has placed the orchestra on a firm footing with the pleasing result that it is now institution of which Bombay may be justly proud.

TRAFFIC IN HUMAN FLESH.

A GIRL KIDNAPPED AND SOLD.

EMPLOYED TO DO PROSTITUTE'S WORK.

BROTHEL-KEEPER SENTENCED.

At the Esplanade Police Court on Friday Mr. B. N. Athavle, Ag. Third Presidency Magistrate, disposed of a case in which Deputy Inspector Sampson charged Govindabai Ramsingh, a Hndu woman with kidnapping Sobhagmai a minor girl, aged twelve, for immoral purposes in November 1921.

The evidence showed that Kansingh Bohansingh, the Complainant, employed as a soldier in the regiment of Kotah State in Rajputana lodged a complaint with the Police there that his wife Sobhagbai was kidnapped about eleven months ago from Kotah by one Bohavaredingh and two others and the girl was subsequently traced in Fanaswadi, Bombay. Head Constable Abdul Majid Fakir Mahomed of the Kotah Police arrived in Bombay on September 17 and with the assistance of the Bombay City Police traced the girl to the accused who was carrying on prostitution at Fanaswadi. Inquiries made at this place showed that the accused had purchased the girl for Rs. 400/- from one Bohavarsingh and employed her for prostitution. The medical evidence showed that the girl was aged twelve.

The defence was that the girl was found straying at Madhavbagh and as she was weeping and there was none to flook after her, the accused took her to her house and made her do domestic work.

His Worship convicted, the accused and sentenced her to suffer rigorous imprisonment for six months, remarking that there was sufficient evidence to show that Bohavaraingh kidnapped the girl from Kotah and sold her to the accused. There was, also, coincidence to show that the money had been exchanged, His Worship ordered that the girl be sent to an orphanage.

MR. E. A. PEERBHOY'S CASE.

FURTHER EXAMINATION.

At the Esplanade Police Court, before Rao Bahadur C. H. Setalvad, Ag. Chief Presidency Magistrate inspector Klien charged (1) Mahomedally Hakimji (2) Roshanally Mahomedally and (3) Esmailji Tayeni, with being members of an unlawful assembly and rioting with a deadly weapon, the common object of which was to cause grievous hurt to Mr. E. Adamji Peerbhoy on August 28.

Mr. Finan, Police Prosecutor conducted the prosecution, while Mr. Saher, barrister-at-law with Mr. Kanuga and Mr. Bhane, pleaders appeared for the complainant. Messrs. Nariman and Yusufally, pleaders defended accused No. 1 and Mr. Binning, barrister and Mr. Kamat, pleader defended accused Nos. 2 and 3.

Further hearing of the case was resumed on Friday.

George Morris Longman, Sergt. of Police attached to the Colaba Police station said he remembered the 28th August last. He, then, corroborated the witness who were previously examined. The Commissioner of Police after he spoke to the complainant asked witness to take him to the hospital and notify the police station concerned. He, then, along with the complainant went to a private hospital That hospital was Dr. Bacha's Hospital. When they were just near the Gowalia Tank Fire Brigade the complainant wanted to go to the Esplanade Police Court to speak to the Magistrate. As the complainant insisted on showing his condition to the Magistrate, witness suggested that the bungalow of the Chief Presidency Magistrate was near by and therefore it would be better if he went to him. So they (witness and the complainant, went to the bungalow of the Chief Presidency Magistrate and saw His Worship. He reported that the assault was committed on Mr. Ebrahimji. His Worship informed witness that that was not the place for him to come and that he should first take the complainant to the hospital and report the matter to the police station. He, then, informed Inspector Klien of the Phalton Road Police Station of the assault.

Cross-examined by Mr. Nariman witness said that there was a cosmopolitan crowd at the time of the occurrence. The crowd seemed to be against the arrest, but it was certainly hostile to the Police. In these days the mere appearance of the Police was sufficient to cause hostility.

To the court, witness said he did not take any part in investigating the case.

Cland Harold Klien, Inspector of Police, at the Phalton Road Police station said a little before 3 p.m. on the 28th August last he returned to the Police station and saw accused No. 1 in custody of a P.C. 2512. He asked him what was his case and he reported that there was an assault committed at Esplanade Road and after the affair he had arrested that accused and brought him to the police station. The P.C. produced the knuckle-duster which was in the pocket of accused No. 1. While he was talking with the sepoy he received a telephone message from the Commissioner of Police asking him to go to the G.T. Hospital. Witness went to the hospital and did not find the complainant there. At the instance of Sergt. Longman witness came to know that Mr. E. A. Peerbhoy was severely assaulted. He, then, further reported to witness that the injured person was removed to Dr. Bacha's Hospital where he went later and saw Dr. Bacha who had just finished the dressings of the complainant. He, then, recorded the complaint of the complainant. He took charge of the clothing and the ring of the complainant. When he recorded the statement of the complainant he mentioned the names of accused Nos. 1 and 2 as his assailants.

The case was, then, adjourned till to-day at 1-30 p.m.

THE LATE MR. FATECHAND RAVALDAS.

Mr. Fatch Chand Ravaldas, a well-known Multani broker, who for the past 30 years had been a familiar figure in the broking and share and stock exchange, died on the early morning of the 4th instant in Bombay. The Old Share Market was closed the same day out of respect to his memory. In his own native place his charities are well known, having built Dharmashala at a cost of two or three lakhs of rupees for the benefit of the people of Shikarpore and Sindh. He leaves a widow, a daughter and a large circle of friends to mourn his loss. The funeral ceremony will take place on Saturday at his residence.

INDIA AND THE EMPIRE.

Recently Mr. Lionel Curtis, whose name is familiar among Indian politicians for his contribution towards the political evolution of Meston, Montagu, Chelmsford and Company, delivered an address at the Williams College Institute of Politics on the "British Empire as a practical contribution to that ultimate political ideal—a Supernational State." Americans, apparently, are not such babes in politics as will swallow anything because it comes from British Imperialists. They have rightly assessed Mr. Curtis' special pleading as "an apology for imperialism", and are sceptical that the British Empire, as it is constituted to-day, is the ne plus ultra in world politics or that it constitutes "a practical step toward the new organization of the world." In their self-complacency, people like Lord Meston and Mr. Lionel Curtis may persuade themselves to believe that India is still being impelled forward by the old ideal, under which she looked upon Britain as her tutelary deity. They forget that not only the great war but the reaction engendered by the Dyer episode and the betrayal of the Muslims have fundamentally altered India's angle of vision and given an altogether new turn to her national and international outlook. She hopes for a freer and fuller life, to be lived on her own lines and according to her own convenience. India's destiny is being shaped far differently from what it was a few years ago, and British statesmen cannot hope to woo her back to the old path by presenting her some meaningless toys. Only in their sub-conscious state do British politicians seem yet to suspect that the British Empire, as it has existed, is passing—and that it must pass like any other overgrown empire. It is to be questioned seriously whether its further decadence can be arrested by investing it with a new nomenclature. Mr. Curtis, we know, is fond of calling it the British Commonwealth of Nations; but his enthusiasm for the new trifle does not seem to have caught up his own countrymen in Britain. In America, he is advocating the view that "unless the principle of the Commonwealth replaces that of the Empire, the whole structure will fall." What he is apt to forget is that the moment there is a commonwealth it ceases to be an empire and people cease to think and act imperially. A commonwealth involves fundamental equality of component parts. The question to be asked is whether the "British commonwealth" as Mr. Curtis must label his imperialism, furnishes in the case of India that motif which animates "Britons overseas". It is perfectly true that certain placemen in England have declared again and again the equal partnership of India in the Empire. As a war-time declaration, it served its purpose. But as we are settling down to reality we have begun to face the fact that India is still a helot within the British Empire and the Indian Government but a subordinate branch of a department of the British Government. It is nonsense to suggest that the British "have recognized their mistakes in India in time", and rectified it by the Parliamentary farce of the Government of India Act.

At one time the fear was that Britain would overwhelm India by a cultural conquest, which alone would have been the surest guarantee of India's subserviency to the British Empire. The cultural conquest, whose beginnings were embedded in the Macaulay Code of Education, has at last been arrested, and to-day the whole of India has risen in protest against the superimposition of British culture on Indian civilisation. As in Ireland, so in India. If the Gaelic League stood for Irish self-assertion and self-realisation—spiritually and politically—in India the Non-Cooperation movement has supplanted the earlier narrow outlook of the Congress, which counted an inglorious existence in the British Empire as it exists as the highest ideal for an Indian. India's British friends, if not the "elder Congressmen", are shrewd enough to observe the trend and meaning of the Non-Cooperation movement. They denounce it as anarchical, revolutionary, and so on, because it suits their convenience to do so. Only those who now flirt with the bureaucracy—for the sake of cooperating, of course—do not see the inwardness of the bureaucratic tub-thumping and are the unconscious tools of the bureaucracy in repressing their own countrymen. Believing themselves to be the apostles of a new peace in the East, these—the Cooperators—are actively assisting the British Empire in its attempt at the reconquest of India. And we have dyarchy—the nostrum invented by Mr. Lionel Curtis of the Round Table. To all sane people, the attempt will seem at once to be a forlorn one. An American critic says:—

"Once it took the country physically. by war and chicane, setting native States against each other, entering alliances to subdue enemies and betray friends. Now it must conquer the country spiritually, in the name of the august conception of an imperial commonwealth of which Mr. Lionel Curtis thinks so highly as the basis for a world state. As in the earlier conquest, it has allies among the Indians themselves, some of them doubtless sincere, in their admiration of British character and faith in British political ideals; others possibly moved by self-interest. But these allies are now scattered throughout a population generally insurgent; it will not be possible to play off one part of the country against another, and conquer it piecemeal; the appeal, to be victorious must be made simultaneously to all India."

This appeal was made "to all India", but because of its inherent lack of sincerity, it was rejected by the whole of India, in favour of Mahatma Gandhi's more robust appeal to the nation. Indians have learnt by experience that the talk about "the cause of freedom in the East (gaining) immeasurably by the inclusion of India in a commonwealth which centres in the West" is clap-trap. The American critic says: "India was acquired by the ambition and self-interest, not of Great Britain, but of certain British citizens; the control of India has been exercised always for the social and pecuniary advantage of certain classes of the British, and its future is envisaged chiefly from the point of view of these classes. . . . the whole structure of law, economics, finance and racial association in India is a monument to the greed and arrogance of a dominant race." Anyone who has eyes to see and ears to hear, will not fail to be struck by the fact that "India is held to-day by the methods of imperial subjugation", though occasionally relieved by platitudes about cooperation and equal partnership. Our Cooperating friends may not understand the inwadness of imperialism, but those who stand by the Non-Cooperation movement do. Repression may do its worst, and with the connivance of the Cooperators may be clothed in the garb of law and order. But the movement has come to stay and will continue to grow inspite of all the obloquy heaped on it in interested quarters and the official repression of popular aspirations.

It is gratifying to note that American opinion, to conquer which Mr. Curtis laid himself out at the Williams College Institute, has recognized that "the fact that his (Mahatma's) followers are acting according to Gandhi's instruction is a proof of the strength and depth of the movement rather than of its collapse", and that the moral ideas, on which Mr. Curtis harped in his address, are provided "not by Lord Reading ,or the Prince of Wales or even Mr. Lionel Curtis, but rather by the Mahatma Gandhi". Mr. Lloyd George and Sir George Lloyd may allow themselves to be deluded about the collapse of the National movement in India. But not even the most purblind votary of Imperialism dare deceive himself that British Imperialism means to India the same as to the white Dominions. Political exigency may necessitate a theoretical recognition of "Imperial citizenship", but even as Lord Meston, a former friend and collaborator of Mr. Curtis, has had to admit:

"Imperial citizenship, as a status of universal and uniform validity throughout the Empire, did not exist. Its sphere was subject to large reservations, geographical and ethnical. The concrete fact was that there were certain white communities in the Empire, which would not permit members of other, or coloured communities to live along-side them on terms of civic equality. Unless we could find some means of handling the demands for a common standard, the result would be increasing embarrassment in our task of Imperial unity. There would certainly be a growing lack of spontaneity on the part of the claimants in their response to future imperial calls upon them."

The "selfish prejudice" and "racial hauteur" of a white Imperialism are incurable, like some of those incurable diseases which Swift has satirized in his essays, and the process of imperialism cannot be completed by conceding a dubious citizenship of the Empire, carrying all the burdens but not the privileges. Such citizenship may seem equitable from the British point of view but India is no longer in a mood to dally with "a tremendous trifle", such as an imperial commonwealth, adumbrated by Mr. Curtis. The "New Republic" writes:

"There was a principle of political science enunciated by an Englishman a generation ago which might seem to apply to India, as well as to afford a clue to the relations of the peoples of America and Europe to those of Asia and Africa. John Ruskin proposed as a test of the right of a ruler his willingness to die for his subjects. Men charged with high responsibility are expected to meet this supreme test; why should not a king die for his people instead of demanding that they should die for him? Are Englishmen ready to die for India? Many have actually done so; many more have died for British rule in India, which even to Mr. Lionel Curtis does not mean the same thing. Will Lord Reading die for India? Will the Prince of Wales die for India? Will Mahatma Gandhi die for India? Will the 40,000 non-cooperators now in prison die for India? Then they, rather than Lord Reading, Mr. Lionel Curtis or the Prince of Wales have met at least the moral test of their right to rule India."

It is possible to keep India bound to the British Empire—by real friendship and not by camouflage and the method of divide et impera. So far as India is concerned to-day that method has been discredited absolutely. British Imperialists have not profited from their experience of Ireland to learn that repression, coercion and economic and political exploitation are not the bulwark of imperialism but spell disaster in the end.

Notes of the Day

Compulsory Education.

The Committee appointed by the Government of Bombay and presided over by Sir Narayan Chandavarkar recently submitted its report, embodying an elaborate scheme for the introduction of free and compulsory primary education in municipal and rural areas of the Presidency including Sind but excluding Bombay City. The Report forms the basis of the Bill the first reading of which has just been passed by the Bombay Legislative Council. Though the proposals of the Committee for the introduction of compulsory education are halting and unnecessarily cautious, the Committee has made an earnest, if inadequate, effort to tackle the question in a comprehensive manner. The Bill, though it marks a definite departure from the present state of things, is hardly satisfactory and it can, in no sense, be regarded as a bold step. As one of the members of the Council tersely said, beyond using the word compulsion in the Bill—in two or three places—even the recommendations of the Chandavarkar Committee have not been adopted. No definite programme of the introduction of compulsory education throughout the Presidency within a prescribed period has been laid down and Mr. Paranjpye's statement that the Government's idea was "to carry out the programme in ten years as circumstances and funds would permit" (our italics) was the parrot-like repetition of the usual meaningless bureaucratic formula. The other main defect of the Bill is that relating to finance. As Mr. Pahaljani pointed out, the Bill was not in accordance with the policy of the Government of India, as declared in 1913, namely, that primary education ought to be a charge on public funds in the same way as law and police. The Finance Member and Mr. Paranjpye put forth the astounding argument that it did not matter whether it was the Government or the local authority which found the money so long as the source was the same and Mr. Lawrence had the temerity to indulge in the claptrap that "it was by the readiness of local authorities to undergo self-taxation that the fitness of any country for self-government was estimated." No member of the Council had the courage to expose this mischievous bureaucratic fallacy and point out that the people are already overtaxed and that the bulk of their revenue is first taken up by the Reserved Departments over which the Council has no control and thereafter doles are given to the Transferred Departments, including Education. There can be no progress in compulsory education so long as the people have no control over the expenditure on Reserved Departments, which includes salaries to the members of the I.C.S. and other public services, and so long as Education is not regarded as the first and most important charge on the revenues of the whole provinces.

Official Orations.

The official orations on the Bill were humorous, though the humour was unconscious. Perhaps it was a sample of ars celandi. The orators were oblivious of the fact that it was the Steel Frame that had stood in the way of the passage of even the modest measure of compulsion that Gokhale advocated. Mr. Otto Rothfeld did not realise that non-officials object to officials, not because they are officials but because they desire the intelligentsia to dominate the School Board in order to energise the official inertia, which is responsible for the prevailing ignorance and its evil resultants which Mr. Shirras lamented. But not even Junker insolence could go farther than Mr. Rothfeld's outburst when he questioned Mr. Kale of Satara whether he was prepared "to bring a resolution before the House to the effect that Government officials ought not to be magistrates but only those who committed forgery or murder." It implies that to prefer non-officials to officials on the School Board is like asking for forgerers and murderers to be magistrates. But if by some mischance one forgerer becomes a magistrate, he would, of course, be a Government official. Mr. Lory took pride in the fact that the Bombay Government "spent 52 per cent. of its expenditure on education on primary education." He forgot that this diversion of funds to primary education was at one time designed to cripple higher education. We trust he realises that it is a beggarly provision for education even at 52 per cent. of the whole sum. Mr. Shirras was justified in alluding to what education had done for Scotland, of which Lord Macaulay reminded the House of Commons when the first Government grant for education was debated in the House of Commons and which in the fulness of time matured into a huge expenditure on compulsory primary education. Mr. Shirras also forgot that the weapon of education was forged not for economic purposes, but to civilise and humanise the Scot. Mr. Shirras spoke feelingly of "the depth of the average British official's feelings towards his adopted country." We hope this new-born love for compulsory primary education is altruistic. Our fears are due to the fact that when we hear of the necessity of pushing on quickly with compulsory education "to accelerate the pace to obtain Dominion self-government", we always feel disposed to suspect that this is one way of arresting acceleration by pretending India is unfit for Dominion self-government by reason of illiteracy. It is for this reason that we suspect the official who is now-a-days enamoured of compulsory primary education. When he comes with the offer one says to oneself Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes. One fears the Danai even when they come with gifts.

Encouraging Indian Art!

One of the standing complaints is that a certain type of Indians, nurtured in English culture, have lost their sense of appreciation and taken to a poor imitation of the West. This complaint is nowhere more true than in regard to art. It has been proved beyond dispute that India has produced some of the finest artists. But art, like other things, has suffered at the hands of a certain class of Indians themselves. With them, national honour seems to have lost meaning, and they are apparently unable to realise that it is bound to react on their personal self-respect. The following letter speaks for itself:—

"Dear Mr. Talim,

Many thanks for your letter of the 4th instant. I remember having seen the bust of Dadabhoy Nowroji in company with Sir Dinshaw Wacha.

The Managing Committee of Dadabhoy Memorial have decided to place the order for his statue outside India and I regret I cannot help you in the matter.

I have read the opinions of the newspapers regarding the marble bust of Lokmanya Tilak which you have prepared for the Fergusson College and I was very glad to learn the praise bestowed on your work.

Yours truly,
NAROTTAM MORARJI."

The decision of the Managing Committee is an insult not only to Indian art but also to the memory of Dadabhai Nowroji, because he was the pioneer of Swadeshi in Indian life and the forerunner of Swaraj. At least out of respect to the memory of the revered patriot, the Committee, with all its anglicised outlook and partialities, might have executed the Memorial in Indian style and by Indian artists. The letter we have quoted has no fault to find with the achievement of Mr. Talim, whose bust of Lokmanya Tilak has evoked universal praise and given entire satisfaction. The Committee by placing the order with Mr. Talim or some other talented Indian artist, of whom there are many, would have done a great service to the cause of Indian art and effected a considerable saving in the expenditure which might have been devoted to some other useful object, in connection with the Memorial. But this is, perhaps, too much to expect from people who lavish their patronage on Italian statuary and pride themselves on possessing cheap reprints of foreign artists.

Cotton Exchange.

For some time past the operations on the Cotton Exchange have attracted considerable attention. They culminated in the suit filed last week by Rai Sahib Sangidas Jessiram against Mr. Purshottamdas Thakoredas and other Directors of the East India Cotton Association. From the nature of the allegations made some sensational revelations were anticipated, but for want of appearance of parties on Wednesday the notice matter in the case stood discharged. It is just as well to infer, in view of this, that the allegations were ill-founded. But, apart from this particular suit, it is time the operations on the Cotton Exchange were subjected to an independent public enquiry. The doings and misdeed of the Bulls or the Bears have their effect on the interests of the public at large who constitute the consumers of cotton or piece-goods, not to speak of the agriculturist who grows cotton. And it is the interests of the public which clamour for immediate steps to secure that the Cotton Exchange does not degenerate into a den for gambling, if not anything worse.

REHABILITATION OF EUROPE

U. S. URGED TO MAKE A DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS)

LONDON, Oct. 6.

New York.—The resolutions of the Committee of the Bankers' Conference urges the appointment of an American representative on the Reparations Commission and requests an immediate declaration of principles under which the Government is willing to cooperate in the rehabiliation of Europe. The Committee recommends President Harding to exercise his powers under the Tariff law to make any provision necessary for the restoration of international commerce until the state of Europe improves.

INTER-ALLIED INDEBTEDNESS.

"A COMPLETE CONSTRUCTIVE PR GRAMME"

LONDON, OCTOBER, 5.

Paris.—Addressing the Chamber of Commerce, the Minister of Finance stated that France would submit a complete constructive programme on the subject of Inter-allied indebtedness at the forthcoming Conference in Brussels. The Minister said a short term loan of twenty million francs would be issued for the restoration of the devastated areas.

MISSION OF HELP IN INDIA.

A FAREWELL MEETING.

LONDON, Oct. 5.

The Archbishop of Canterbury addressed a crowded congregation in Westminster Abbey in support of the Mission of Help for India. The Bishop of Peterborough and the Dean of Manchester headed the missionaries. The Archbishop said the strengthening of the Church's life among Anglo-Indians was obviously a matter belonging not merely to India but to the whole Empire. Referring to the difficult position of Englishmen in India the Archbishop said he hoped much help and comfort would result from the visit of the missionaries.

DISASTROUS FOREST FIRES IN CANADA

LONDON, Octt 6.

Toronto.—Forest fires in North Ontario have wiped out the settlements of Haileybury North Cobalt and other places. The reported death roll is thirty, but it is feared many more are dead, while thousands are homeless. The fires are raging over 2,500 square miles and damage amounts to millions of dollars. Three relief trains have been despatched.

A DIPLOMATIC ERROR.

COL. GIDNEY'S OFFER TO FIGHT TURKS.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, Oct. 6.

In connection with Colonel Gidney's recent offer of help on behalf of the Anglo-Indian community to fight the Turks, Mr. J. H. Abbott of Jhansi at a meeting held there said:—It grieves me to say Colonel Gidney has committed a great diplomatic error which if not righted at once, will entirely alienate us from the sympathies of our Indian fellowmen with whom we mean to work hand in hand for the future advancement of India towards her rightful position among nations of the world. We have not been consulted, but ignored before the offer was made and we have in consequence been placed in a very awkward position. Our Indian Mahomedan brethren are bound to Turkey with the indissoluble tie of religion and are quite naturally exultant over the victories of Ghazi Mustapha Kemal Pasha. The Indian Government in season and out of season has pleaded the cause of Islam from the view point of India and pressed the Home Government for a revision of the Treaty of Sevres and just now when there is every hope of it being revised to the entire satisfaction of the Mahomedan world without clash of arms, our representative to the ridicule of all stands out alone and invites Anglo-India to fight. He has thereby embarrassed not only us, but I feel sure the Indian Government also. And we should, therefore, lose no time in completely dissociating ourselves from Colonel Gidney and expressing our strong disapproval in regard to his offer to the Government. By his action Colonel Gidney has proved himself politically unsound. He has not received and I am sure he will never receive thanks of the Government.

PEACE CONFERENCE

ANGORAN GOVT'S REPLY TO ALLIED INVITATION.

URGES INCLUSION OF RUSSIA UKRAINE AND GEORGIA.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS)

LONDON. Oct. 5.

The Angoran Government's reply to the Allied invitation to the Peace Conference has been received by the Foreign Office. It states that the Angora Government appreciates the desire for a just and durable peace and the meeting at Mudania will deal with the Angoran Government's point of view regarding the present military situation and its decisions will be completely executed. As regards the Peace Conference the Angora Government accepts the invitation and suggests that the Conference should be held at Smyrna on October 20th and proposes that Russia, Ukraine and Georgia should be invited.

TURKISH RIGHTS IN THRACE.

The note thanks the Allies for recognising Turkish rights in Thrace and declares that there is no disagreement in principle regarding the freedom of the Straits to secure the safety of Constantinople and the Sea of Marmora and to safeguard minorities within limits compatible with the independence and sovereignty of Turkey or the exigencies of an effective settlement in the Near East.

INVITATION TO RUSSIA.

The reply points out that apart from the four great Powers and Greece, two States are invited presumably because they are interested in certain questions to be settled, but the only important question of this kind is the control of the Straits. Therefore, the Angora Government is surprised that Russia, Ukraine and Georgia have not been invited since they are deeply interested and their participation would help to make the settlement more lasting.

The Angora Government promises to communicate the reply later regarding its membership on the League of Nations.

EVACUATION OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

It welcomes the renewed assurance regarding the evacuation of Constantinople by Allied troops and is convinced that the Allies will appreciate the impatience with which the Angora Government awaits the realisation of this. The reply states the Angora Government is impressed by the appeal with which the Allies' note concludes and assures the Allies of its loyal and sincere assistance towards re-establishing and maintaining peace.

VENUE OF PEACE CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 6.

The Angoran Government's proposal to hold the Peace Conference at Smyrna is not favoured in authoritative circles in London owing to the remoteness of the place from Allied capitals and the probable lack of accommodation and facilities for communication. It is noteworthy that the latter disadvantage is being felt in connection with the Mudania Conference. The Cabinet last night had to adjourn in consequence of the non-receipt of details of yesterday's session. Thus there is at present no indication whether a satisfactory solution will be reached to-day, but this is not anticipated owing to the great divergency of interests at stake.

"WANTED AN AUTONOMOUS REGIME IN THRACE."

LONDON, Oct. 5.

Sofia.—A meeting of several thousands convoked by the headquarters of the Thracian Refugee organisations, has passed a resolution urging the establishment of an autonomous regime in East and West Thrace under the League of Nations. The meeting subsequently went in procession to the Allied Legations where copies of the resolution were left.

RECEPTION TO PRINCE OF WALES.

MONTAGU'S WEEKLY REPORT.

LONDON, Oct. 5.

Messrs. Montagu's weekly report says; The silver market again lacked vitality, and the tendency early in the week was reversed by the absence of demand from India and China. A slight scarcity of spot silver produced largely by covering dear operations has maintained a small premium for prompt delivery. Indisposition here and in the East to speculate owing to uncertainty of the future is the chief reason for the recent inactivity.

POURPARLERS AT MUDANIA.

"A MOST UNSATISFACTORY STATE OF AFFAIRS."

ALLIED GENERALS' TEMPORARY RETURN TO CONSTANTINOPLE.

Reuter's Telegram's.

LONDON, Oct. 5.

Constantinople.—A British communique issued here says:—

"The Mudania Conference was resumed yesterday morning. General Harington handed Ismet Pasha the draft of the convention agreed upon by the Allied Generals after considering the points raised by Ismet on Tuesday. Ismet Pasha in the afternoon intimated the various objections to the protocol, and the Allied delegates, desirous of conciliation, readily assented to several objections, but there were still a few points unsettled when the Conference adjourned at eight in the evening. The Greek delegates reached Mudania late in the afternoon. The Conference will be resumed tomorrow morning."

FRENCH COMMUNIQUE.

A French communique says:—

"Ismet Pasha yesterday raised fairly categorical objections to certain points and the Allied Generals are examining these with a common wish to arrive at a settlement while keeping the Turkish interests especially in view and endeavouring to reconcile them with the minimum of indispensable guarantees. The Allied Generals conferred with the Greek delegates at ten last night and it is hoped to reach a final settlement to-day."

UNSATISFACTORY CONDITION OF AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Oct. 6.

The Cabinet was hurriedly summoned at eleven o'clock last night to consider a despatch from General Harington disclosing an unsatisfactory condition of affairs. The Cabinet has requested him to repeat his despatch, which is incomplete owing to a wireless breakdown. General Harington, meanwhile, will remain in Constantinople and await further instructions.

TURKISH DELEGATES BLAMED.

LONDON, October 6.

The Cabinet separated last night after a meeting lasting an hour and a half without coming to definite decisions. A most unsatisfactory state of affairs is shown in General Harington's despatch to be due to the attitude of the Turkish delegates. The question of the interim military arrangements which was to have been the subject of discussion at Mudania has not yet been reached because of the Turks' desire to introduce political issues entirely outside the scope of the Conference.

The military dispositions in the neutral zone were consequently not discussed and the question of British withdrawal from Chanak, regarding which erroneous reports have been published, has absolutely not been considered.

GRAVE SITUATION.

LONDON, Oct. 6.

The gravity of the situation at Mudania is fully recognised by this morning's newspapers though they do not despair that a way out will ultimately be found. It is understood that the Turks have suddenly adopted a much more uncompromising attitude and are suggesting territorial advantages quite beyond the competence of the military gathering including a portion of West Thrace. It is reported that they are also demanding permission to occupy East Thrace, before the Peace Conference and a measure of control in Constantinople.

ATTITUDE OF BRITAIN

The British Government, however, is firmly opposed to allowing major political issues to be prejudiced before a full Conference. Moreover, it is pointed out that despite the Turks' assurance, military concentration in the direction of Ismid and the Chanak zones is still proceeding. The Kemalist artillery is reported to be a considerable distance from Chanak where, meanwhile, General Marden has utilised reinforcements to lengthen the British line.

The attitude of Greece too is serious and a menacing factor. Advices from Eastern Thrace show that the Greek Government is firmly opposed to the evacuation of Thrace and the capital is placarded with appeals for volunteers.

PRESS COMMENTS.

LONDON. Oct. 6.

Several newspapers are inclined to question whether the presence of the civilian M. Franklin Bouillon at the military conference will tend to facilitate an agreement. The "Times" thinks the situation looks undeniably grave and that success of the Conference is undoubtedly endangered. The paper adds that the tenour of the Angora Government's note upon many points suggests that its authors may not be in very pliant mood.

The "Morning Post" thinks there is no need to despair because the matters are not progressing favourably at lightning speed. The Turks are Orientals, th journal remarks, and hard bargainers.

The "Daily Telegraph" says the best hope of a good solution lies in the visible presence of a British armed force in support of the real freedom of the Straits. The Angora note, continues the paper, means that the Turks are ready to enter the Conference on the general lines of the Paris agreement and they will reassert areir re-entry into the European system as stiffly as they can.

The "Daily Chronicle" urges the need of a united front, and strongly condemns the Independent Liberal attitude. It complains of misrepresentation of the actions of Government, and says the Government never contemplated separate action except in regard to those aspects of policy in which France has already acted separately.

The "Daily Express" demands no compromise regarding the freedom of the Straits but is apparently prepared to meet the Turks' points.

The "Westminster Gazette" is optimistic in view of the nature of the Angora Government's note.

The "Evening Standard" reports that Rechad Bey visited the Foreign Office, today, but, contrary to circulated reports, M. Venizelos did not call at the Foreign Office yesterday, nor did he see Lord Curzon. He paid an unofficial visit to Sir Eyre Crowe, to-day, and stayed a considerable time.

When M. Venizelos left the Foreign Office he was accompanied by Scotland Yard Officials, who endeavoured to frustrate the efforts of the pressmen to interview him.

CONSCIENCE CLAUSE.

MR. PARANJPYE'S CLIMB DOWN.

INTERPELLATIONS IN COUNCIL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, Oct 6.

The Legislative Council assembled to-day at 2 p.m. Sir Narayan Chandvarkar presiding. The fifth list of questions and answers was supplied to-day. Mr. Trivedi had put a lengthy question pertaining to Mr. Karandikar's articles on jail experiences which had successively appeared in the "Kesari".

MULSHI PRISONERS.

The Hon. Mr. Hayward replying said that Government were always ready to enquire into bona fide complaints of a definite nature and the first article of the assistant editor of the "Kesari" was sent for remarks to the Superintendent of the Yeravada Jail. Government cannot undertake categorically to deny all the numerous allegations of an indefinite nature and characterized so often by deliberate distortions and gross exaggerations and misstatements which have been published from time to time in pamphlets or in the Press. The chief complaints of the assistant editor of the "Kesari" would seem to be insufficient clothing, indecent inspections, inadequate diet, scandy supply of water, neglect in the hospital an exceptional rigour towards prisoners sentenced for seditious offences. These complaints were without any foundation and the statements in support of them absolutely untrue. Replying further, Mr. Hayward said that it was sufficient to indicate here that an ample scale of clothing has been laid down in the jail manual, that 75 per cent. of the prisoners increase in weight, that there is a supply of over 18 laks of gallons of water a month and that the hospital was visited daily by the Superintendent who was an experienced officer in the Indian Medical Service.

Mr. Trivedi in a supplementary question asked whether Government thought the particular complaint regarding indecent inspections a justifiable one, but the President ruled the question out of order.

J. J. HOSPITAL SCANDAL.

The same member had asked that the correspondence between the Government and the Senior Medical Officer of the J. J. Hospital be placed on the table. Mr. Paranjpye sticking to the press note which according to him fully stated the facts informed the House that Government did not consider that any useful purpose would be served by publishing the correspondence. Replying to a further question from the same member Mr. Paranjpye said that Government resolution No. 783 of the 29th June 1922 was intended to apply to all hospitals to which it could apply as soon as the fact that it could not apply to the scheduled hospitals in Bombay was brought to the notice of Government it was withdrawn so far as they were concerned.

Mr. Trivedi had another important question in his name inquiring as to whether any steps had been taken by Government to afford more facilities to Mahatma Gandhi and Mr. Banker at the Yeravda Jail. The Hon. Mr. Hayward replying said that Government have under preparation rules for the institution of a separate division for simple imprisonment prisoners to which persons sentenced for offences connected with political movements will be eligible with other prisoners. No special rules or orders are contemplated relating to individual prisoners.

Another question from Mr. Gandhi bearing on the same sub-agent elicited information from Government to the effect that these rules would be published shortly.

BOMBAY SHARE BAZAAR.

Discussion on topics of general interest was then taken up. Mr. Haveliwala moved that a committee should be appointed to inquire into the present status of the Share Bazaar of Bombay and into the alleged huge gambling transactions recently reported and to recommend to Government what action if any is necessary that the stock exchange may be put upon such a basis as will effectually stop all further corners. Mr. Havelliwala in moving the resolution virtually condemned the Bombay Stock Exchange for the alleged huge gambling.

Mr. Dumasia amended the original resolution asking that the committee to be appointed should consist of two representatives, one for the investors and the other for the industrialists, the bankers and brokers and should be presided over by an officer of indicial experience.

Mr. Dalal supporting the amendment told the House that he had consulted Sir the spinning wages include carding charges also. The weaving charges vary according to the quality of the yarn and width. For lower counts of 10 to 12 the charges per yard are 3 as. for 36", 4 as. for 50", and 4½ as. for 54". For higher counts of 15 to 25 the charges per yard are 4½ as. for 45", 5 as. for 50" and 6 as. for 54".

CONCLUSION.

Andhra has a bright future in regard to Khaddar and with redoubled energy and concentration Andhra may easily become the largest Khaddar producing province in India. Advantage has been taken by unprincipled merchants to pass off cloth of mill yarn as genuine handspun Khaddar. The Congress Committees are devising methods to certify genuine products. But the wholesome principle will be for each Province to produce its own Khaddar.

KHADDAR PRODUCTION IN ANDHRA.

CHARKHA AS INSURANCE AGAINST FAMINE.

(THROUGH THE KHADDAR INFORMATION BUREAU.)

In the Ceded famine district of Andhradesh, the Congress workers are introducing the charkhas and setting up handlooms for weaving the yarn turned out, as famine relief. Nagalapurem in Kurnool district and Guntakal are two important centres from which famine relief work is being carried on by the Congress. The charkha has proved and effective remedy in such cases and is greatly welcomed and is in contrast to the stone-breaking and other allied works, that are generally organised by Government agencies. The All-India Congress Committee sanctioned a sum of Rs. 25,000 for famine relief in the Ceded districts. It is with this sum, that the Provincial Congress Committee has opened several centres of Khaddar production, in the famine area. In one centre alone, as a beginning 1500 charkhas were distributed amongst the people and 100 looms were brought under control.

THE WORKERS.

Private enterprise is greatly [illegible] for the progress. Andhradesh has [illegible] Khaddar production. After the [illegible] of the Khaddar programme by [illegible] India Congress Committee at Bo[illegible] April 1921, there was a great de[illegible] Khaddar of Andhra from other [illegible] which gave a great impetus to the [illegible] of handspinning and handweaving on [illegible] large scale. In many places colonies of weavers were formed and Co-operative Khaddar producing Societies organised. There is a large body of ardent Congress workers engaged in Khaddar production, but there is need for many more, for a whole army of them, considering the unique facilities the Province has for Khaddar production. The number of practical workers available is inadequate to meet the needs of the Province. It is to be hoped the need will be supplied by the young men of the Province, without any further delay. There is much propaganda being done, but the greater need is for practical workers who will mobilise the vast resources of the Province in Charkhas and hand-looms for Khaddar production.

KHADDAR ORGANISATION.

The Province had no seperate khaddar department till recently. Now a seperate Khaddar organisation has been formed with Sj. K. Nagoswara Rao as Director. In the absence of a central agency for Khaddar work, the Province suffered from all the attendant evils following the lack of coordination and inter-district cooperation between the workers. It is hoped that as a result of the reorganisation taken on hand, all the shortcomings that existed would be eliminated. There is much scope for work before the Andhra Congress Khaddar Department when it begins to function actively. It has to ensure a regular supply of cotton, for want of which several districts had to stop spinning. It has yet to set in motion lakhs of spinning wheels that are idle—though the women owning them have still retained the art of spinning—for want of proper arrangements for the purchase of yarn. The facilities for weaving handspun yarn have to be multiplied and more hand-looms brought under control.

THE FINANCES.

The All-India Congress Committee has made grants of over Rs. 60,000 in different sums for Khaddar work in Andhra, though the sums were not handed to the Provincial Congress Committee ear-marked for the purpose. Rs. 25,000 was granted, as already stated, for famine relief work in the Ceded Districts. Another grant of Rs. 16,000 was made to be used in distributing Charkhas among the depressed classes. A further sum of Rs. 10,000 was granted to Pallipadu Ashramam, which is used for Khaddar. Two sums of Rs. 500 each were also granted for Khaddar work. These grants do not include any sums spent from the Provincial funds. Including private investments, over Rs. 1,50,000 have been utilised for khaddar production with good results. The loan of Rs. 1,50,000 now sanctioned by the Congress Working Committee will go a long way in stimulating Khaddar production.

THE CHARKAS AND THE OUTPUT.

The Provincial Congress Committee estimated in its report in 1921, 1,17,780 Charkhas were working in the Province. The movement for the production and use of khaddar has been steadily gaining ground all through. The number of Charkhas working this year exceeds that of last year. The largest width woven is 54". All districts are able to weave the largest width required by them. The variety of Khaddar produced ranges from 6 to 100 counts. The weaving is dose and artistic. The Province produces variety of dhoties, angavastrams, upper cloths, turban cloths, saries, towels, shirtings, coatings, striped cloth, coloured cloth, printed cloth, cloth with fancy borders, bed sheets etc, the cost varying according to the counts. The prices are moderate, when compared with the quality. The selling prices of plain unbleached khaddar are approximately as under:—

10 to 15 counts—1 yard X 45"—10 annas per yard.

15 to 20 counts—1 yard X 8"—12½ annas per yard.

20 to 25 counts—1 yard X 45"—14 annas to Re 1/-. per yard.

WAGES.

In Andhradesh carding is generally done by the spinner. Where it is done by professional carders, the charges are from 1½ to 2 annas per lb of 40 tolas. The spinning charges vary according to the counts, but the average rates can be said to be 3 annas for 10 counts 4½ annas for 15 counts, 6 annas and more for 20 counts and above. Where the spinners card and prepare their own silvers,

MUSTAPHA KEMAL PASHA.

HIS LIFE-STORY TOLD BY MME. GAULIS.

II.

From that moment, he began to work, and, before everything else, to enlarge the field of action. Raiding parties composed of small detachments were thrown out in advance. They penetrated into rural and urban centres, seized the telegraph, and treated with the official authorities.

Everywhere the Police forces rallied to the standard of the Nationalists; and the organisation took charge without any trouble of all the departments of the administration. Within a few weeks they conquered Western Anatolia in sight of the British troops holding the Bagdad line who fell back slowly, unable to retain the advanced positions. I have myself assisted at this extraordinary spectacle, says Madame Gaulis, and seen 40,000 British soldiers, two-thirds composed of Indian contingents, retreating before the 1,500 Circassian cavalries of Ali Fuad whom the English officers took for the advance guard of a solid army. The error of Samsoun was repeated.

This striking success of the Nationalist forces raised the spirits of the Anatolian populations. From those first months of the movements, order, the spirit of efficient organisation, and a uniform manner of carrying on the administration revealed the hand of the unique commander. To go through Anatolia was aready enough to form a very clear idea of what could be the personality of Mustapha Kemal Pasha. I have discovered in course of time, just at Angora, that same hold of the house, and the same language which everywhere put in mind the impress of the chief.

In the beginning of October, 1919, the fighting became localised on two fronts: the Vilayats of Smyrna and of Aidin, and the Bagdad line. On the former, the English authorities placed Greek formations and directed them; the latter they defended themselves, and never a mention of the rude combats which marked the successive stages of a continuous retreat. They opposed the blows with such cool energy, and such tenacity as never despaired but relied on itself and the action of time.

The Germans had left behind them numerous depots of arms and munitions. The war material in the Caucasus seized by the English at the time of the armistice, was taken away by force by the Nationalists, and lastly, the Italians passed through in abundance, via Adalia-Koniah, everything that was asked and drew from it great profit.

Mustapha Kemal did not allow himself to be dazzled by the rapidity of the first successes—not he! While actively pursuing his military operations, he held himself equally ready to negotiate. Be it at Constantinople, or be it in Europe, his accredited agents sought to fix the preliminaries of an agreement. He himself received with his perfect good grace, all those who took the road to Sivas, and he repeated without fatigue to French officers what were his objects and his ideas.

The latter easily comprehended the precise sense of his words, but he insisted on their immediate transmission and on his getting a hearing. The pity of it was, already, for Mustapha Kemal the impossibility of getting an immediate hearing either in Paris or London. His words got twisted and turned in transmission and his acts misinterpreted. The Anglo-Armeno-Greek propaganda engineered with an indefatigable address to embroil the sons of the Anatolian plots and the great European public had perforce to believe what was persistently dinned into their ears.

Duped, deceived by all those who—officially or officiously—were sent to him from Europe as truce-bearers, Mustapha Kemal lost one by one all his illusions, and his correct sense of the realities made him take hold of the question in its completeness. The few individuals scattered here and there who, as the result of chance or intuition, understood the bearing of his work, could not usefully work against the power of the occult and exorable action which had vowed his ruin. Without entirely giving up the idea of conciliating Western opinion, he turned more and more towards Musalman Asia; she alone went to him in efficient aid, he manoeuvred with Russia his next-door neighbour, and with a tact, a correct measure, and a knowledge of the land which he alone possessed, for he relied on his own personal observations, he laid down the plan of his Asiatic Alliances as he had laid down that of the Anatolian organisation, utilising with the same address all the capabilities and aptitudes within his reach, rallying the irreducibles, and by the simple illuminant of his personality, and by his prodigious faculty of hard work, he fashioned day by day the links of the great chain which would connect the farthest groups of the Musalman world with his Anatolian structure.

III.

I knew all that, in a more or less fragmentary manner, but in a sufficiently precise fashion, when, in May, 1921, after a boisterous voyage which a double Anglo-Greek offensive, political and military, had failed to interrupt, I at last reached Angora.

I arrived in a straight line from the battle-field of Ine-Ennu. In fact, I overran it. I had traversed from one end to the other the first lines of Ismet Pasha's men and saw with my own eyes the losses suffered by the Greek army, read on the field itself, the narrative of the desperate Greek flight during which they had scattered on the route even the stretchers of their wounded; but the thing of which I will ever preserve a frightful memory—I can see it still vividly before my eyes—was the complete destruction of the evacuated zone two or three days beforehand: Seud, Kuplu, Biledjik, Yeni-Shehir, Pazardjik, Ine-Gueul, Bozuk, from one end to the other of this curve which encircled Eski-Shehir, I had seen the organised confusion, touched the depths of the ruins, counted the victims, and heard the survivors. I had heard owls hooting over the calcined stones of Seud under which were still heaped together dead bodies of human beings, I had seen the last inhabitants of Biledjik crying their hearts out, and after passing several days at Eski-Chehir, I happened to remark to Ismet Pasha: "What more could Angora teach me? Have I not traversed during weeks your convoys of emigrants and touched their misery?" To which he replied: "No, so long as you have not seen him, the him, you could not really comprehend everything. Go to Angora, hear him, observe him, and you will then know just how far we could go."

A few days after, arrived in the morning, I stepped out of my carriage to enter the small house of the Railway station where I was expected.

What more simple could one imagine than this modest structure of a Railroad station, placed three steps off the public road, and, yet, from the very threshold, there was that indefinable circumambience, and that discreet elegance which I was going to find so many times during the following days.

A big automobile was waiting, and some soldiers of the Kerassounde corps—the special guard of the Pasha—watched beside it; officers from the quarter-guard came out to confront me, and, rapidly, I was introduced and conducted to the first story. There, in a kind of anti-chamber, some men, standing, were conversing. On my arrival, they stopped, and one of them detached himself from the others and remained behind. Instantly, by a kind of intuition which comes one knows not whence or how, guided perhaps by the masterful regard, I approached and held to him my hand. He had a flicker of a smile on finding himself recognised, opened a door and shut it again behind us; a few moments after, we were deep in conversation. With a gesture of slight impatience, he turned back the soldier who came in two or three bounds to interrupt us.

I had a glass of coffee and a cigarette, and he showed me on a map the region through which I had come.

With his rapid voice accompanied by such a clear ring, he questioned me on my passage through the first lines, seeking to reach my impressions, and we had since those first moments, such a way of not prolonging uselessly the phrase commenced, which hardly, if ever, comes only after a long and patient practice at the exchange of ideas. Both, in hearing or in responding I was put in mind of the words, so just, recently heard at Constantinople: "He knows how to be attentive, to snatch the idea of his questioner, to extract instantly the essential from it, and to find forthwith the argument which forms a complete answer to what was opposed to him."

This rapidity of spirit, this mastery of the regard—and of the strangest of regards at that—unfathomable and overchanging, made up of brusque folds on itself, of dazzling flashes, and of brief childish smiles of an unbelievable youth, these and such—like things they had so many times retailed to me. Those flashes of steel so livelily veiled contrasted with the simplicity of his attitude.

I saw him under a thousand different aspects, but the essential traits remained immovable: Justness of expression, clear, rapid judgment, always accompanied by that air of the master under the guise of the most charming of courtesies, that svelte elegance of the alluring figure, and that perfect case of word and gesture.

Friends and enemies, detractors and loyal admirers both had thus depicted him to me, remaining under the magnetism of his personality, always returning to it spite of everything, it was a surprise to discover the piercing regard, curious above all of the thought which revealed itself, to catch in an imperceptible redressing, the power of that individuality, and, finally, to have a presentiment of the duality of the two beings who superpose in him without ever completely fusing.

INTERVIEW WITH SWAMI ANADANAND

(Associated Press.)

AHMEDABAD, Oct. 3.

The "Navjivan" publishes an interview with Swami Anandanand, keeper of the Navjivan Press, who is undergoing rigorous imprisonment in Sabarmati Jail. He said he has lost 5lbs in weight and was given rice and pulse in the morning and rice and vegitable in the evening. He had to work from morning till 3 or 4 p.m., but was afterwards allowed to write theses on religion. He was not given any light at night which he spent in attending on Mr. Valji Desai, Publisher of "Young India", who is also undergoing rigorous imprisonment in Sabarmati Jail and who was ill.

GOVERNMENT BOOK DEPOT.

To the Editor of "The Chronicle."

Sir,—On 25th September last I applied to the Superintendent, Government Central Press Bombay for a copy of the Report of the Bombay Rent Committee on which the present Rent Acts Amendment Bill is based. I was then referred to the Government Book Depot at Poona for the copy. I immediately wrote to the Superintendent, Government Printing, at Poona and on the 27th ulto.. a letter was addressed to me by the latter officer saying that the Report asked for being printed and that it could not be said when it would be ready for issue. I have not received the copies I applied for as yet, although the Report had been made by the Rent Committee more than 11 months ago (or to be exact on 30th October 1921) and copies of the Report were issued to the Press and members of the Legislative Council on 18th September last. It was resolved on the latter date that the Report of the Committee should be published for general information and should be kept for sale to the public at the Book Depot Poona. I first applied to the Government Central Press, Bombay seeing from imprint at the foot of the Report that it had been printed at the Government Central Press, Bombay. The Rent Bill went through the first Reading last week. It is necessary that public associations and others should have been able to read the Report of the Committee on which the Bill is based, before submitting their representations to the Council. You are well aware, Sir, that it would take much less than 10 hours to strike off a thousand copies of the Report (which extends over 24 foolscape pages) if the matter were kept standing in type. But it is now nearly a fortnight since the public has been kept without a copy.

It is strange that copies of Government publications like the said Report, printed in Bombay at the Government Central Press, should not be sold in the Presidency town itself. Thus at times for a copy of an Act passed by the Council, priced at one anna, it costs at least 4 annas to get it from Poona by V. P. Post, besides the delay in ordering it out from there. Would it not be possible, therefore, to keep the Government Central Book Depot or even a Branch thereof, in Bombay? Only a few years ago the Central Book Depot, from Bombay was removed to Poona, thus putting the people of Bombay to great inconvenience. Is Bombay climate so very uncongenial for Government publications?—Yours, etc.

MYSORE PROBLEMS.

DEWAN'S EFFORTS.

(Associated Press.)

MYSORE, Oct. 5.

In the course of a joint reply to the addresses by a number of public bodies in the State, including the South Mysore Planters Association, Kolar Gold Fields Mining Board, Mahomedan, Indian, Christian and Adi Dravida committees the Dewan after touching briefly on the various questions raised regretted that no capital outlay on new railway lines could be contemplated from the State funds for some years to come. He accepted the suggestion to call a conference to go into the whole question of Mahomedan education and concluded by assuring the Adh-Dravida community that their interest would always received earnest consideration from Government and stated that orders had been issued directing that qualified candidates from the depressed classes should get first preference in respect of appointments in the State's public services.

MORE AKALI BATCHES SENTENCED.

(From our Correspondent.)

AMRITSAR, Oct. 4.

Sardar Sadhusingh, Magistrate, sentenced two batches numbering 120 as follows:—One of 40 under Sections 143 and 447 and the other of 80 under Sections 145 and 447, I. P. C. Sentences under Section 447 were three months' rigorous imprisonment including fifteen days' solitary imprisonment, Rs. 200 fine or in default three weeks' rigorous; and under Section 143 or 145 respectively, six months' rigorous including one month solitary and Rs. 200 fine or in default six weeks' rigorous imprisonment.

Mr. Sengupta arrived here to-day and joined the Inquiry Committee. Mr. Stokes was better but still unable to take part. The Committee to-day examined Mr. Gopaldas Segal who had already filed a complaint in court alleging assault and robbing by policemen. The next witness was Bhai Jodhsingh, Editor, "The Khalsa", who had been an eye-witness to beating on several occasions. A number of villagers from Tera related the incidents of the beating and death of Bhais Bhagatsingh and Tarasingh.

Several other batches going to cut wood have been sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment.

ALLEGED POLICE EXCESSES.

ENQUIRY COMMENCES AT AMRITSAR.

(Associated Press.)

AMRITSAR, Oct. 5.

Mian Mohamed Said, Magistrate, is holding his Court at Amritsar for the purpose of investigating alleged excesses on the part of the police. To-day he is investigating the case of a woman stated to have been injured at Raja Sansi when the police dispersed the Jatha of September 2nd. The Parbandhak Committee have produced no evidence but the Court has recorded the evidence of the Superintendent of Police and the Deputy Superintendents both of whom stated that they saw no women touched by the police. Doctor Pal who was acting on behalf of the Padhandak Committee stated that he was called to examine a woman spectator who was stated to have been pushed back by a policeman with a lathi. Her hurt was so slight that he did not give her medical aid. A European witness also examined stated that he saw a woman giving water to Akalis lying on the road side but did not see her beaten. Next day he saw a woman lying in the Akali hospital, Amritsar, and was told that she had been beaten by the police at Raja Sansi, the previous day. This woman, witness stated, was not the woman that he saw giving water to Akalis at Raja Sansi. After recording this statement the Court closed the enquiry for the day.

CONSCIENCE CLAUSE.

Dinshaw Watcha who advised him to seek for Government intervention which he thought would be the best check to such huge gambling.

Mr. Trivedi while sympathising with the mover thought that there was no need for a Committee as that process would lead to inevitable delay. He amended the resolution saying that instead of appointing a committee. Government should be requested to intervene and take the necesary steps. Sir Ibrahim, in the opinion of Mr. Trivedi, was an experienced director of that body and hence he should be prepared to do the needful.

Mr. Bole supported Mr. Trivedi.

The Hon. Mr. Lawrence explaining the Government attitude said that Government were not approached by any responsible association in Bombay in connection with this. However, Government was prepared both ways, either for the appointment of a committee or for a Government enquiry as the sense of this House would decide.

Mr. Dadubhai Desai supported Mr. Trivedi.

Mr. Salgar in his marathi speech opposed both the resolution and the amendment, arguing that Govrnment intervention in such a commercial matter would be rather an undesirable precedent, for, in future Government might be consistently called upon to interfere with gold and silver speculation as well. That would prove an impossible position.

Rao Bahadur Chitale admitted that some of them having nothing to do with the stock exchange and gambling were quite incompetent to pass any opinion on the subject. Government, Mr. Chitale, thought had taken up a position virtually amounting to sitting on a fence. In his opinion Government should come forward and give a lead. He advised the mover to withdraw the resolution which he thought would be fruitfully moved in the December session.

Mr. Haveliwala emphasized that that was an urgent matter consideration of which could not be postponed without detriment to the public interest. The Hon. Mr. Lawrence rose once again to explain what Government would like to do in this matter The general opinion of the public, continued Mr. Lawrence, should have expressed itself first. Government did not desire to commit themselves in any way as that would not be quite impartial. Mr. Lawrence preferred Mr. Trivedi's amendment to the other two propositions placed before the House.

The resolution passed finally by the Council runs thus—

"That this Council recommends that inquiries into the constitution status and the working of the Bombay stock exchange should be undertaken and Government be requested to that effect." This resolution was passed without any disentient voice.

CONSCIENCE CLAUSE.

Mr. Bhate then moved a lengthy resolution asking for the sanction of a conscience clause in the matter of religious education given at present in the schools and colleges receiving aid from Government. This, of course referred to the compulsory attendance at the Bible classes in the Wilson College. Mr. Bhate made out a strong case quoting Government orders for attendance to be made voluntary at religious classes.

Mr. Trivedi supporting Mr. Bhate in the general principle thought that some time should be given to the missionaries to think over, so that the latter would be enabled to adjust matters in view of this resolution.

A NEWSPAPER AGITATION.

The Hon. Mr. Paranjpye in his speech characterized the agitation as a purely newspaper agitation which aimed only at abusing Government in one way or another. The Wilson College, he said, had never made a secret of its rule that compulsory attendance at the Bible class was strictly required in the college. There were other arts colleges in Bombay and he failed to understand the motives underlying that sort of agitation against the college. Dr. Paranjpye said that the point in wished to amend the resolution which question was a larger one. He, however, after beingg amended ran thus:—This Council recommends that the Government should see its way to introduce the following rule in the grant-in-aid code that in all schools and colleges which are either the only institutions of their kind in the neighbouring area or which are not purely denominational and which receive Government aid in any form whatsoever the attendance by students to any class of special religious instruction which the parents or guardians of such students shall not have sanctioned would be perfectly voluntary and that no payment in grant-in-aid should be made to any institution which will contravene the provisions of this rule.

The House after a short discussion passed Mr. Bhate's resolution as amended by Mr. Paranjpye.

Mr. Bole then moved that a committee be appointed by Government to make enquiries into the grievances of the tenants holding lands under the Mofi system in the Ratnagiri and Kolaba districts.

The resolution was not being discussed when the House rose for the day.

FLOODS IN NORTH BENGAL.

HARROWING TALES OF HAVOC.

(Associated Press.)

CALCUTTA, Oct. 6.

Harrowing tales of the havoc caused by the unprecedented floods in north Bengal are daily reaching Calcutta from relief workers from various relief centres opened by philanthropic non-official agencies. These reports show that parts of Bogra and Rajshahi districts suffered most. In the affected area in Bogra not a single house is standing erect. Food grains and other stock, thousands of cattle and poultry have been washed away. The country looks like a vast sea. People have taken shelter on trees, on roofs of the collapsed houses and some on the railway embankment. Most of them, rich and poor have got nothing to live upon. It is estimated that between two and three millions of people have become absolutely destitute. At Adamdighi near Santahar, several men, women and children were killed as a result of the floods. Dead bodies of eight males, four females and ten children were disposed off by the relief party at Adamdighi centre. At Akelpur near Santahar seventy-five per cent of cattle died and ninety per cent of huts collapsed. Inhabitants of Akelpur were lying without food on the heaps of jute bales. Crops were totally washed away. On the 22nd, a woman with her two babies binding them to her breast and struggling in water reached Jamalganj, but when she was brought on above she was found dead. One man along with his wife, daughter and son started from Pahastoli to take shelter. The wife and daughter were washed away by the current and when they reached Jamalganj the boy was found dead and doctor had to cut both hands of the dead boy in order to free the neck of his father. The man by losing all the members of his family has turned mad.

MSHEDIUR STRIKE UNCHANGED.

(Associated Press.)

JAMSHEDPUR, Oct. 5.

There has been no noteworthy change in the situation with regard to the strike at the Tata Iron and Steel Works. The strikers are holding meetings daily at which men are exhorted to hold out. At a meeting last evening a difference of opinion manifested itself on the question of accepting payments due to the strikers and the meeting ended in a disorder. About nine thousand employees are now working. One blast furnace is in operation and other departments are being restarted. There appears to be no prospect of the Company's giving way. Mr. Tutwiler, the General Manager has returned and met some of the leaders of the Sikh community. Reports of intimidation and assault are being received daily and it is alleged that social boycott is also being resorted to.

WILL LORD READING GO.

A SIMLA RUMOUR.

A correspondent writes to the "Tribune" from Simla under date October 1:—

It is pretty certain that Sir William Hailey will succeed Sir William Vincent. As to Dr. Sapru's successor, I hear that the post was offered in the first instance to Sir B. C. Mitter who expressed his inability to accept it. The next offer has, it is stated, been made to Sir Chimanlal Setalvad. Dr. Sapru's successor will therefore, in all likelihood be Sir C. Setalvad.

The transfer of Sir William Hailey to the Home portfolio will cause a vacancy in the office of the Finance Membership. The rumour regarding the selection of Mr. Dalal of the India Council I believe, is altogether baseless but four Indian members in the Viceroy's Executive Council was probably too much for Lord Peel and the British Cabinet. The proposal, if it was made, must have been turned down for it is being freely stated here that Mr. Howard who was to come out as Secretary to the Incheape Committee, will be appointed in succession to Sir William Hailey and Mr. R. A. Mant, formerly of the Punjab, will act as Secretary of the Retrenchment Committee.

I give out another story for what it is worth, though I can not vouch for its accuracy. It is a matter of common knowledge that the relations between Simla and Whitehall, have of late been strained.

Partly, because of this and partly, because the Viceroy is not keeping good health, it is widely rumoured that His Excellency will retire in November. Pending the arrival of a permanent incumbent, His Excellency Lord Willingdon will officiate. So says Dame Rumour, meanwhile let us wait and see.

RATHENAU MURDER TRIAL.

FREITGH REDUCTION ON KARACHI LINES

LONDON, Oct. 6.

The India Section of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce has decided to proceed to arrange a contract with the Karachi steamship lines for a reduction of freights similar to that with the Bombay lines. The reduction will operate as soon as the signatures of the shippers to Karachi to the agreement have been secured.

TITLES OF PALESTINE RELIGIOUS COMMUNITIES

LONDON, Oct. 6.

Geneva.—At an extraordinary session of the Council of the League of Nations, Lord Balfour announced that Britain would withdraw the memorandum with regad to the establishment of a Committee of Investigation into the titles of various religious communities in Palestine respecting the Holy places. He declared the decision had been taken in view of the diversity of political and religious interests and rival claims of various communities which rendered an immediate solution of the difficulties impossible. Nevertheless, Lord Balfour requested his colleagues on the Council to exert their efforts to overcome the difficulties.

SELF-GOVERNMENT IN SCHOOLS.

GURU AND CHELA SYSTEM.

BY M. M. GIDWANI.

III*

Freedom must be given to the child not only in discipline and administration but in time-table and choice of subjects as well. There is no reason why all the children should be forced to learn the same subjects, at the same time, at the same place, at the some rate, and in the same way. They all are not of the same make or pattern? Nature created them as individuals. Man grouped them in classes.

Shephereds might lead their sheep in herds that children are not sheep. They are separate entities, each one of whom is blessed with special gifts and capabilities which it is the business of the educator to encourage and foster. The unit in Educataion, therefore, should be a child and not a class. Collective teaching should give place to individual teaching, and the class-room make way for the laboratory and the library.

There are schools in Europe and America where this has been done and successfully too. The children work by themselves and go up to the teacher's room only when necessary. The teacher is like a consultant.

Rather, I think, the West is coming back to our old guru and chela system. What we have cast off, experts in foreign countries are reviving, and we are content to feed ourselves on crumbs cast away from their tables as useless. We must revive our own system which has certainly mor psychological.

It certainly recognized each pupil as an individual by himself who must be treated separately. It had no general prescription for all.

Further, it also recognized the basic principle of Education that the business of growing must be done by the child himself. The teacher cannot grow for him, just as the teacher cannot eat, digest, and assimilate for him. The Guru helped and watched the growth of the chela. He did not grow for him. He could not. The new teacher ought to do the same.

Free Choice of Subject.

Since the unit in Education is the individual child, he should be free to grow in accordance with his own line of growth. He should, therefore, be free to choose his own subjects. The curriculum must fit the child and not the child the curriculum. The School ought to provide for children's special aptitudes. A budding poet ought to receive every encouragement to pursue poetry, the young musician must not be forced to cram dates of battles, heights of mountains, and names of numberless gulfs and bays, while the practical young craftsman should be free to exercise himself in the workshop and the craftroom. The school must provide the child with what he can do, and not force him to do what he cannot do. If we only recognized this we shall not fill the country with 'failed matrics' who are eternally doomed, for the Gods have pronounced their verdict that they are unfit and not wanted in the country. What a sad wastage of the country's in man power will be spared if only we made our schools more psychological, Each child has his worth. There are no dunces and no rogues. The last boy whom in our ignorance dub a 'blockhead' is only an unsolved mystery. He has not been understood. He hasn't had his chance. He is waiting for his opportunity to come. When that comes he will find his true place. It is this personal opportunity which the new moment of self-government in schools attempts to provide.

Free Time-table.

The time-table is a substitute for work. It is a relic of barbarism, which our children will find only in the museums and wonder at the stolid stupidity of their ancestors. Now, what we exactly do is this. We parcel out the day in 6 or 7 periods, of about 45 or 50 minutes each, and relegate it to a separate subject. Thus, the first period may be devoted to English, the second to Mathematics, the third to History, the fourth to Geography, and so on. The first few minutes, are taken up in 'settling down'. The time actually devoted to the subject is roughly half an hour. When the interest, if at all there is any, is just beginning to grow, the bell rings and the lesson changes. It is like performing conjurer's tricks except that the conjurer finishes his tricks while the teacher does not do so.

The child should be free to make his own time-table. It does not matter in the least where he works or when he works. All that really matter is that he works and enjoys his work. Let each pupil draw up his own personal time-table for the day or even for a whole week. in consultation with the teacher if need be

PEACE IN THE EAST.

TURKISH "CO-OP. RATOR'S" VIEWS.

"FANTASTIC FABRICATION OF MASSACRES."

Mustapha Rechid Pasha, a diplomatist of distinction and the future Turkish Ambassador in London when peace has terminated the state of war still existing between our two countries, writes Mr. Dudley Heathcote in the "Manchester Guardian", gave his views to me this afternoon on the new situation in Asia Minor.

Mustapha Rechid Pasha is a diplomat of the old school who has played a distinguished part in the history of his country, having represented her as Ambassador or delegate at peace conferences continuously from 1892 up to the war, during which he remained en disponibilite, his objection to Turkey fighting the Allies debarring him from office.

"You would wish me to make a declaration with regard to our aims and the terms on which we are prepared to make peace. Nothing is easier. But I wish first to clear up one or two points on which misunderstandings have arisen . . . and this is indispensable if you would understand the Turkish point of view.

"In the first place you must once and for all cease drawing distinctions between the Government of Constantinople and the Nationalist Government of Angora. For practical purposes they are one and the same, for they have identical national aspirations, and are bound by the same pact, the pact to which the Chamber of Deputies gave its consent at Constantinople. How this nationalist movement arose you probably know as well as I do. It was born in humiliation, and began to grow and develop to its present greatness from the moment when the Greeks landed at Smyrna. For it was only in Anatolia that our people could give expression to national aspirations that, trampled to the ground by the Greek invader, the Constantinople Government, its army disarmed and its capital in the military occupation of the Allies, was powerless to uphold.

"THE GREEK YOKE."

"The Treaty of Sevres, in a word, exasperated my countrymen. It was a treaty that violated every principle on which the Allies had fought the war, but—what was worse—it submitted my countrymen to a Greek yoke that aimed only at our extermination. We protested; asked for a termination of so unjust an occupation; but though at the last Conference, at which there was a Turkish delegate, the Powers made certain proposals that would have met with our approval, the Greeks refused to consent to them, and the matter was left in abeyance, the Greeks being left free to carry out their self-imposed task of applying the Treaty of Sevres by the force of arms.

"I would like here to say that as far as I know the Greeks did not receive any special mandate on the part of the Allies, but that the Allies, when Greece assumed such a responsibility, warned the Greeks that whatever action they took would be on their own initiative and at their risk and peril. I do not think this has been sufficiently appreciated in this country.

"Before dealing, however, with the main question of Turkish policy I wish to allude to the fantastic fabrication of massacres which it is customary to attribute to Turkish agency. A legend has grown up in your midst for which Mr. Gladstone's denunciation of atrocities committed against Christian elements is in the main responsible. We are not monsters. Whatever acts of repression we may have committed were legitimate acts provoked by the massacre of our own people and other attacks levelled against our very existence as a nation. So that I would have you hesitate before believing the incredible tales of massacres that have been poured down your gullible throats. . . . Most of these are based on insufficient evidence and traceable to anti-Moslem prejudice."

Mustapha Rechid Pasha added: "I do not wish to enter into a controversy, but must point out that all reports of delegates of the Great Powers who made investigation on the spot concur in stating that right and justice could only be secured by putting an end to the Greek occupation, while it is common knowledge to-day, as confirmed by all your correspondents in Asia Minor, that Greek troops systematically burned and devastated every village on the trail of their retreat.

"We are not barbarians, monsieur. In no country have minorities possessed the rights and privileges that Christian and other minorities possess in our Empire. Let me give you instances. Are you aware of the fact that a considerable proportion of our administrative posts are held by non-Moslems and that in the course of my diplomatic career I have rarely been without a Christian or Greek to help me in my work?"

TURKISH TERMS.

When I asked the Ambassador what peace terms Turkey would exact . . . he made the following reply: "We cannot give up Thrace. Constantinople being our capital and the seat of the Khalifa, it is indisputable it should be made secure from attack. And the only way to do this is for it to have a hinterland. So long as the Greeks remain in Thrace there will be neither peace nor tranquillity in Constantinople, for it is impossible for any Government to carry on its work if it is subjected to the constant menace of an enemy."

"What about Adrianople?" I hazarded. "Will you demand as indispensable that it is restored to your rule?"

"Undoubtedly. Adrianople is as essential as Eastern Thrace; it is a holy city. Remember that it was the first capital. It must return to the untrammelled sovereignty of the Khalifa."

Then, on my mentioning Constantinople and the Straits, Mustapha Rechid Pasha, after pausing a little, finished our interview with the following statement:—

"We have declared over and over again that we admit the principle of the liberty of the Straits. Consequently, on the basis of the principle, Turkey can enter into negotiations with the Powers on this question.

"As for Constantinople, it is plain that a capital cannot remain occupied by foreign troops. In any case, this measure was only adopted by the Powers as a temporary one, having been devised about the time of the Greek occupation of Asia Minor.

"One last word. . . . We are not Imperialistic, and only desire peace and the right to our political and economic independence in order to carry on the work so ably begun at Angora. If, therefore, our demands be granted us peace will be easy to secure. But it should be realised that Turkey is not moribund, and that, while desirous of becoming a real factor in the consolidating of a world-peace, she remains conscious of her rights, and firmly resolved to obtain satisfaction to her legitimate aspirations."

BANKRUPTCY OF SURAT MUNICIPAL BOARD.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SURAT, Oct. 5.

The Government nominated board of municipal management have resolved to sell the Sanitary Improvement Fund securities to meet municipal costs after obtaining permission of the higher authorities. The board has also applied for renewal of a grant towards the Chief Officer's pay. They further intend to increase octroi duty on sugar.

and let him keep to it. Let him chart out his own programme and follow it. At the end of the period he must show the diary of his work, how he has carried out what was planned. The results in most cases will be greater progress by the child than before and with more solid profit. It is time that this plan is beset with difficulties. The children, brought up under the old regime, will not fall in so readily with the new. Most of them would much rather be led by the teacher than lead themselves. They would much rather carry out commands and instructions passively and obediently than to rely on themselves. They would prefer being governed to governing themselves, for freedom implies greater responsibility. But our task is to train them, however gradually it may be, to independence than to habituate them to slavery. We have to help them to train themselves to think independently, to feel independently, and to act independently. Real manhood evolves only under such circumstances, when the control is inner than outer, the discriptive of the 'self' is from within than from without. It is best to try the experient with children over 10 years of age when the 'hard-instinct has developed. Further, freedom ought to evolve gradually, and not be introduced suddenly.

Self-government in these varied forms has been introduced in schools in Europe and America with very encouraging results. The experimental products of these experimental Schools show capacity for work self-reliance skill in leadership, and bent for social service and communal good.

Freedom has been given not only to ordinary children but even to Juvenile Criminals who have proved themselves worthy of it. Their entire life has been transformed because of it. If criminal children in other countries can govern themselves why not India's normal children?

cent, from Rs. 445 to Rs. 455, Pearls, from Rs. 895 to Rs. 915, and Simplex, from Rs. 635 to Rs. 645; while among the declines New Great eased from Rs. 660 to Rs. 640 and Kohinoor from Rs. 1,995 to Rs. 1,960.

The outlook on the Stock Exchange for the October settlement is far from cheerful, and it is difficult not to subscribe to the gloomy view which is being generally taken of the market for this delivery. In some quarters it is believed that the bulls' commitments for the October settlement will amount to very large figures.

In the miscellaneous section, Tata Steel deferred remained quiet at Rs. 195, and Trams moved round Rs. 112/8. Bank shares continue steady, Imperial Banks round Rs. 1,355 and the Contributories around Rs. 465. Tata Bank shares were quoted at Rs. 15/12, while those of the Bank of India were round Rs. 107.

FOREIGN MARKET.

During the week under review the Home Market show slight change in Liverpool and sharp advance in New York. In the early part the market advanced on straddle buying and on reports of Near East situation more favourable. Later on the market declined on Southern and Wall St., selling and on strained political situation in Europe. The market again advanced on some speculative buying on political situation more favourable. The Agricultural Bureau Report issued upto 25th September 22 was 50.0 per cent which indicates a crop of 10,135,000 Bales as compared with 57.4 per cent last month and 42.2 per cent last year. The U. S. Census Bureau gives the cotton ginned upto 14th September 1922 as 3,880 000 Bales which compares with previous year as 2,997,000 bales and the year before 2,249,600 bales. Statistically the position of the market appears to bbe getting stronger and stronger, but on the other hand general trade and political complications are against cotton at present. We are of opinion that with some reliable developments in the latter condition the prices may go higher. On the whole we would recommend buying around present level and on all good breaks.

The following were the changes in the Home Markets as compared with last week :—

LOCAL FORWARD MARKET.

Fully Good M. G. Broach April/May opened on the 29th ultimo at Rs. 404. The prices advanced to Rs. 417 on buying by European Exporters, and on short covering. The Marwari Jobbers sold at this level and the prices declined to Rs. 402. At Colaba the market opened at Rs. 405. At this level the prominent Indore operator covered his sales and the prices jumped to Rs. 417 and after fluctuations closed on the same day Rs. 416½. The market since then was kept closed and Rs. 415 was nominally quoted on the 5th instant. Fine M. G. Oomra December/January opened on the 29th instant at Rs. 349 and steadily advanced to Rs. 362 on buying by European Shippers and after fluctuating within a range of five rupees closed at Rs. 362½ on the same day. The nominal quotation was Rs. 365 on the 5th instant F. G. M. G. Bengal December/January was Rs. 295 nominal on the 29th ultimo and Rs. 304 on the 5th instant. The local markets are kept closed owing to some settlement going on regarding the September Oomra segment.

PIECE-GOODS.

The cloth market has been very quiet during the past week. Operations have been at a standstill as there is very little practicle demand. Buying has been confined to sorting up lots, although the reports of the Monsoon from the cultivating districts have been favourable. It is evident that buyers are afraid to run any risk. Owing to cheaper sales made by Japanese firms in Grey goods for near shipment and on account of the decline in the prices of the local mill cloths in sympathy with the drop in the value of the raw material, current rates of Manchester cloths have shown a reduction, the more so as heavy shipments of White Goods have commenced to arrive here. To make matters worse, some lots have been offered from Karachi at cheaper rates, but buyers are not adding to their commitments owing to financial stringency and to the uncertainty regarding the future outlook. The Lucky Day sales in Calcutta are estimated to amount to only four thousand packages instead of fifteen thousand packages booked on an average during past years for forward delivery from Manchester. This may be attributed to the financial crisis; the Swadeshi movement, the low basis of local values, the curtailment of the buying power of consumers owing to the economic situation created by the higher prices of foodstuns, the heavy stocks lying unsold, the damage done by the heavy rains in upcountry districts, and to the belief that values in Manchester will be easier in the near future. The same causes will restrict forward business here during the Devali occasion and there is little likelihood of free operations taking place.

Quotations in Manchester when tested have been found to be very irregular. Some makers have engagements for months ahead and are difficult to deal with. But it is easy to find comparatively cheap sellers, who want orders to keep their looms going. But the limits offered by merchants have generally been quite impracticable, and when advances have been required they have been slow in raising the prices, with the result that the negotiations have seldom been successful. The continued severe depression in the cotton trade has been felt in Lancashire, where most of the spinning concerns are gradually losing capital and a financial crisis is feared. Suggestions have been made for curtailment of production and fixing minimum prices for standard counts of yarn

Grey shirtings of Manchester make have been dull and drooping. Drills have been easier all round. Grey jaconets have declined further by two annas per piece, and the tendency seems to be easier. White shirtings have also shown a fair reduction in the absence of demand. 58 inches by 20 yards Red End Mulls have dropped down in price to Rs. 8 per piece. 39 inches by 20 yards gold end mulls have changed hands in the bazaar at a reduction of two annas. 37, 42 and 47 inches by 18 yards mulls have been easier by eight annas per piece owing to there being no inquiry. Nainsooks have remained steady at the reduced rates ruling the previous week. Things have come to such a pass that John Peel's White mulls in wider widths have had to be advertised in local papers by the merchants in order to effect sales. A few Importing Firms as well as auctioneers have also been advertising various cloths in stock of sale even in retail quantities. Large stocks are still being held by the Importing Firms and Banks on account of merchants, in which a very heavy loss will have to be incurred, looking to the present market rate and the rate of exchange. There are some dealers who can hardly stand the loss, but with the aid of the Importing Firms they are receiving the goods, selling them at the best market rate, and paying the proceeds to the firms, leaving the question of deficit to be settled later on.

It will be remembered that the Bombay Native Piece-goods Merchants' Association recently advertised in the papers here and in Manchester asking for tenders for freight contracts. The Manchester Chamber of Commerce immediately took this opportunity of making the agreement themselves with the Bombay Steam Trade Conference for a new freight rate between Manchester and Bombay of 50 shillings per ton weight or 40 cubic feet space, plus 10 per cent. less deferred rebate, which represents a reduction of 37½ per cent. Ten per cent will be the rate till December 1923 and after this date it will be renewed annually. The reduction is operative immediately and the Chamber on behalf of the shippers has agreed to use the Conference ships for a period of five years. Glasgow and Bradford shippers are said to be taking similar steps. A leading importing firm here has written to its constituents regarding this matter and intimated that the necessary change will be made in the printed terms of the indent form in this connection. This fixing of the freight contract has been a smart move on the part of the Manchester shippers, who have thus deprived the members of the Bombay Native Piece-goods Merchants' Association of the rebate they used to get on the packages imported by them, and have saddled them with such a high rate for a period of 5 years, simply to put the matter through in haste and not to allow the benefit to go out of their hands. In spite of this it is surprising to find that "the Chamber considers that the agreement will beneficially affect trade with India and establish a new regime of friendly commercial relations."

SUGAR MARKET REPORT.

Bombay, Oct. 6.

Throughout the week our market ruled quiet with small demand and heavy arrivals and dealers have become very nervous and began to sell their holdings at market rate and prices for ready and forward positions have been reduced by six to eight annas per cwt. all round. Business was done amongst dealers in white Java September shipment as low as 18s 5d and October c18s 10d and November December c 18s 10 and November December c19s 6 all Free Bombay Harbour, but since yesterday owing to strong reports from Java and good enquiry for ready sugar owing to very low prices there were buyers c3d to 5d higher all round. Karachi and Calcutta markets remain quiet with lower rates and no business. Java market has revived again on better news from Cuba and prices have gone up ¼ gilder viz 12¾ fos. for ready 13F for Oct. Nov. and 13¼ for Decr. Jan. delivery Chinese being principal buyers. Cuban market is strong c3½ dollars. Mauritius report a steady market with quotations of Rs. 15-12 C.I.F. Bombay with no business although Indians were soliciting orers to Rs. 14-12 to Rs. 15 C.I.F. Bombay. The following are the bazar rates and stocks :—

Arrivals :—

Riverway with 20,000 bags Java sugar, Rage with 71,000 bags Java sugar, Rajput with 72,000 bags Java sugar J. Framroze Co. sugar brokers.

COLOUR-MARKET.

The market remains dull and only limited stocks are changing hands. Alizarine 20 per cent., passed at Rs. 85-90 cwt. Congo-Red remains firm and business passed at the ruling rates. Benzo Purpurine and Delta Purpurine were not in demand. Magenta crystal remained dull. Sulpher Black has to report some business at Rs. 1-8-0 per lb. Miscellaneous Dyes had no important fluctuations.

Quotations :—

Alizarine 20 per cent. Rs. 90 per cwt.
Congo-Red. Rs. 2-8-0 per lb.
Benzo Purpurine. Rs. 3 per lb.
Delta Purpurine. Rs. 4 per lb.
Malacite Green. Rs. 7 per lb.
Fast Red. Rs. 6 per lb.
Victoria Blue Rs 7 per lb.
Sulpher Black. Rs. 1-8-0 per lb.

MILL-STORES-MARKET.

Oct. 6.

There is almost a slump in the mill-stores market and the volume of business transacted is practically little. Healds are quoted at Rs. 2-2-0, however, large lots lying in the hands of weak-holders are offered at Rs. 1-14-0 or slightly more. Reeds keep firm at Rs. 0-5-0, and the forward C I F. rates are 4 d per gross. Among Bobbins, Slubbings have had no enquiry and the market kept quiet at Rs. 29 per gross for current size. Conical-pirns are quoted, at Rs. 6 per gross, but without any material demand. Weft prins very according to sizes. Warpers. English 4½ x1½ are quoted at Rs 85 per gross. There is practically a very poor demand, and the outlook of the market does not seem to be bright. The Quotations are as under :—

Slubbings Rs. 30-0-0 Japanese.
Rovings. Rs. 28-0-0 Japanese.
Healds. Rs. 2-2-0 Japanese.
Reeds Rs. 0-5-0 Japanese.
Ring Rabbeth 5 inches Rs. 12 Japanese.
Roller cloth 16 inches Rs. 9-4-0 Japanese.
Roller cloth 18 inches Rs. 10 Japanese.
Elastic Healds Rs. 31 Japanese.
Warpers Rs. 85 Japanese.
Picking Bands Rs. 2-8-0 Japanese.
Pickers No. 4 Rs. 75 Japanese.

CHEMICALS-MARKET.

Oct. 6.

Zinc and Magnesium-Chlorides kept dull in demand and te prices aphpear to be slowly going down in view of absence of demand from consumers. Brown-wgal-lead Litharge and Yellow-Prussiate-Potash are almost quiet and the demand has long been overtaken by supply Bichromates-soda and Potash witnessed a better inquiry last week, but the prices are almost steady. Sodium-sulphide 62 per cent., had no further fluctuations. Epsom-salt is quoted at Rs. 4-12-0 per cwt. Aniline-salt is quoted at Rs. 0-9-0 and Antimony-salt is quoted at Rs. 0-13-0, per lb. The market at present from consumers' point of view is very optimistic, as the prices ruling, at present movement are almost rock-bottom. There are large lots lying in the market. The quotations are as under :—

Zinc Chloride Rs. 22.
Magnesium Chloride Rs. 4-8-0
Brown Sugar Lead Rs. 37.
Litharge Rs. 38.
Bichromate Soda Rs. 42.
Bichromate Potash Rs. 55.
Caustic Soda Rs. 32.
Bleaching. Rs. 25.
Yellow Prussiate Potash Rs. 1-8-0

YARN-MARKET.

Oct. 6.

This week has proved uneventful so far as the Yarn market is concerned and transactions reported are not on a large scale due to holidays. Slack demand and uncertain tendency all along. Inquiry from mills as well as from weavers for various kinds yarn has largely diminished principally on account of absolutely slack demand for cloth and although new year purchases should have been in full force in this period, we find practically no business doing except a few transactions here and there

English yarns find no buyers except at much reduced rates and fresh forward business is not at all possible owing to heavy Japanese competition. Japanees yarns find some inquiry both in ready as well as forward deliveries and a few further transactions have been reported.

Indian mills do not show any change and sales reported are not large. There is some inquiry at considerably reduced rates which do not generally result into business. Calcutta, Madras and other markets report very slack trade and China is still as quiet as ever.

The tone of our market is still not hopeful for the present and it is believed it will still take some time for good demand to come in.

MR. MATHURADAS GOKULDAS.

We understand that Mr. Mathuradas Gokuldas, the popular sportsman, has given up the agency of the Mathradas, Madhowrao Scindia, Kasturchand, Bradbury and Ceylon Spinning and Weaving mills to meet his liabilities in the Share Bazaar.

THE TARIFF BOARD.

"Ditcher" writes in "Capital" :—It is rumoured that the constitution of this Tariff Board has been comfortably settled by the power behind the throne. For his compliancy in sacrificing the agriculturists to the industrial protectionists Mr. T. V. Seshagiri Aiyar, the Madras Zemindar, is to be awarded the Christ'anship, and it is possible that to support his dignity he will be paid Rs. 5,000 per mensem. Sir Ibrahim Rahimtula will leave the Executive Council of the Governor of Bombay to become the Mayor of the Palace. There is some doubt about the third place. There are aspirants galore, but as it would look a little too indecent to pack the whole Board with Indian zealots of Protection, there is just a chance of Sir E. Holberton, the Rangoon merchant, being selected. I also hear that Sir Maneckjee Dadabhoy of Nagpur will be made K.C.I.E. for his services in bringing about the repudiated compromise. What a lovely little banao if it comes off. The butchered tax-payer will be a base ingrate if he does not glorify the gods for making a capitalist holiday!

YOU WILL RELISH & DIGEST YOUR FOOD

If your digestive organs are in a sound and healthy condition, and extracting full nourishment from the food you eat, there ought to be no sign of pain or discomfort. But to-day thousands are afraid to eat because of the pains that follow even a light meal of good and wholesome food. The cause most probably lies in a weak or disordered digestive system. Possibly the stomach is out of order, the liver a little sluggish, or the bowels constipated. Get them into a state of healthy activity by taking Mother Seigel's Syrup, and you will be able to eat without any painful after-effects, because your food will then be well digested. Put it to the test yourself, you will cease to suffer.

PROTECTION OF PRINCES.

A DIE-HARD'S JUSTIFICATION.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, Oct. 5.

The embers of the controversy about the Princes Press Protection Bill having been stirred up by the indiscreet observations of the Government of India in their communique yesterday, there does not seem to be any immediate prospect of hearing the last word on the subject. A good deal of comment and criticism has been made on the communique and it is demonstrably clear that there is complete unanimity in the view that Lord Reading has committed an irretrievable blunder. Messrs. Rangachari and Ginwalla are also coming in for their share of criticism, in that they had unnecessarily explained the position of those who rejected the Bill in the Assembly. The position of the Assembly being very clear their manifesto is considered irrelevant. There are however others who think a bit differently from Messrs. Rangachari and Ginwalla and who explain their opposition towards the Bill on quite other grounds.

NO CONCERN OF ASSEMBLY.

Their attitude is briefly summed up in the following few terse sentences which Rao Bahadur C. Subrahmanyam uttered in the course of my interview with him. The Rao Bahadur, it will be remembered, was one of those who opposed the Censure Resolution on the Premier's speech in the Assembly. He has never hesitated unequivocally to declare his views whether they were favourable to the people or not. The views of such a candid member on the present topic will no doubt be found interesting. He says the majority in the Assembly when it threw out the Bill thought that the Princes do not deserve this protection. The Assembly, in my opinion, represents the electorate in British India and does not in any sense represent the States or the people therein nor has it any control or right to criticise the Princes or their administration. So it would be ordinarily irregular for such an Assembly to re-enact a penal law which by the unanimous voice of the people and the Government in British India is no longer reasonable or necessary to retain on the Statute Book. The Assembly would be arrogating to itself an uncalled for, unnecessary and improper responsibility in helping to re-enact such a law. This was the guiding principle which actuated us and a good many others in throwing out the Bill at its First Reading. We are not at the same time slow to recognise the responsibility of the Governor-General in his relation to the Princes to maintain his pledges to them. And if in the exercise of those high statutory powers vested in him, he thinks it a matter of State policy to bring back this penal law into the Statute Book of India the responsibility should be his and his alone and it is no use for the elected members of the Assembly whining about not having been given an opportunity to revise, to review and to recant their views and opinions which they proclaimed when they threw out the Bill. It is far better that this law should be on the Statute Book. On the authority of the Governor-General and the Home Government than that it should go forth as the joint production of the elected members of the Assembly and of the Government. From this point of view we have absolutely no complaint against the action taken by the Governor-General. As to the merits of the question there can be no difference of opinion between officials and non-officials as to whether the Indian States are administered in a manner deserving of this extraordinary protection from the British Indian Legislature."

SIR D. SARVADHIKARI ON FISCAL COMMISSION REPORT.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CALCUTTA, Oct. 4.

In connection with the Fiscal Commission Report Sir Devaprosad Sarvadhikari said:—In part the Government must formulate its proposals in advance of a meeting of the Legislative Assembly so that its budget proposals may be matured. It is inconceiveable that the Government should give a go-by to the recommendations of an important body like this in framing its next budget proposals and even if it is shortsighted enough to do so, unavoidable budget amendments by exponents of both schools of thought will ultimately prevail. From this point of viey it is a matter of deep regret and disappointment that there will be no November meetings of the Indian Legislative Assembly so that the preliminary skirmish might have been finished in November and ground cleared of much misapprehensions and misconception. This coud have made the Government position easier for the mind of the Assembly would have been made manifest and budget work of the Assembly would have been made easier. The Inchcape resolutions and the Fiscal Commission resolutions must be reflected in the next budget and from that point of view the next budget will be one of the most remarkable and subjected to the keenest scrutiny. The Government and the Assembly must wait for the Inchape report till about the last moment for giving the Government budget proposals the finishing touch. It would, therefore, have been best from all points of view to have disposed of the outstanding difficulties in connection with the recommendations of the Fiscal Commission in interim. This would have been of assistance not only to the Government but also to Inchcape Committee

A HAPPY BABY MAKES A HAPPY MOTHER
Mrs. S. W. says: "I myself derived great benefit from Glaxo during the months before Baby was born, and was always in perfect health."

You can nurse Baby yourself

If the greatest privilege of motherhood is to be yours; if you would know the joy of having Baby dependent on you alone for health and strength, make sure now that you will be able to nurse him yourself.

Very many mothers who could not otherwise nurse their babies have been enabled to do so by taking Glaxo themselves every day. Taken regularly two or three times a day (both before and after Baby's arrival), Glaxo enriches and stimulates the flow of breast milk, and maintains the mother's strength without taxing her digestion.

MARVELS
PSYCHIC POWER

I am by nature a suspicious soul and whenever anyone comes across me professing supernatural powers I always view him with distrust and make out for the treachery of the business.

With such a disbelieve I went to Mr. M. A. Mir. On the 1st occasion I found that he could correctly transcribe questions put by me without his ever having any opportunity even to know the sort of questions I was putting to test him.

Whereafter I went to Mr. Mir on several occasions and on every occasion I found that not only could he correctly tell you your questions, but the answer would come written on your own question-paper in some mysterious way. In this last-mentioned example of Mr. Mir's power I can say this much only that neither Mr. Mir no anyone else had any opportunity to handle the question-paper and the answers on so many as 17 questions were answered in this way in less than a minute's time.

Such powers make one think indeed and to explain in the words of the immortal author "there are many things in heaven and earth that are not dreamt of in your philosophy."

Mr. Mir must be congratulated upon his wonderful power. I only hope the power will be used by him for the good of humanity and that too for a good long time to come.

K. S. RELE, B.A., LL.B.,
Charni Road, BOMBAY.

Dear Sir,

I have had the occasion to consult Mr. MIR during the illness of my relation. The prediction has turned out, word by word, true. Not only this, but Mr. MIR told me that my relative cannot get cured and will die on such and such date. It came out true. My relative died on the same date. This prophecy was made fifteen days before her death. I have great faith in this science he has acquired. I honestly recommend others to try in the case of emergency. I have my questions prepared at home, and I had kept them folded with me. They were read out by Mr. MIR, word for word correct. When I opened, every question was found in writing itself. It is marvellous as well as mysterious.

P. M. DOCTOR,
Girgaon,
BOMBAY.

The "Bombay Chronicle" of 10th and 23rd April and 7th May last, and also vernacular papers have spoken in eulogistic terms of Mr. MIR'S psychic power.

If you are suffering from any kind of disease, if you are tired of life, if your life is a burden to you and others, if you are suffering from hallucination of a gloomy future.

You should lose no time in paying a visit to Mr Mir, the great psychic whose wonderful reading of past and future incidents, is the topic not only of Bombay but of the principal cities of India.

PATIENTS AND OTHERS, please consult, or write to, Mr. MIR at the MIR PHARMACY, Kshetria Dyanti Nivas, Girgaon, Charni Road, Bombay.

LANCHETTE
PRICE INCLUDING POSTAGE AND PACKING
Rs. 5-8
SUCCESS AND ENTIRE SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
FULL PRICE REFUNDED IN CASE OF FAILURE.

THIS wonderful Planchette is made of wood and is shaped like a heart. Underneath are two pantagraph wheels about two inches high. There is a hole in the so made plank of board. In this hole is fixed an ordinary pencil which is so adjusted as to form, as it were, the third leg of the Planchette. In the centre of the Planchette is fixed an electrified magnetic compound having full SPIRITUAL and MESMERIC power. (This is the special pattern of Professor N. P. Kotie. The Planchette is then placed upon a sheet of white paper and two persons lay their hands lightly upon it, not in any way influencing its motion; then, one of them or a third person, asks a question, and the wheels move. The Planchette traverses the paper, and the pencil, of course, following the motion of the wheels, write, the reply very distinctly and freely. It is not necessary to ask the question aloud, a mental question is qnite sufficient, and all languages are a like to the Planchette. Our Planchette is unique. Anybody may use it. It immediately writes the answers to the questions put to it. Everybody should own a Planchette. Price Rs. 5/8 (9s.4d.) including postage and packing.

NOTE:—Full price refunded in case our Wonderful PLANCHETTE does not work according to our advertisement.

To be had of THE MAGICAL Co, JHANSI (INDIA).

Now is the time to test our wonderful PLANCHETTE.

REMARKABLE PRESS OPINION.

PREVENTION BETTER THAN CURE.

"I find this as an efficacious remedy not only for Influenza but in Malaria also. I can strongly recommend therefore to the public to have always a bottle chiefly for prevention of Malaria."

S. SUBBA RAO, L.M.P.,
Influenza Home, Mylapore.
MADRAS.

PREFERENCE vs. PREJUDICE.

"I am generally prejudiced against patent medicines, but Squibb's I have found handy and effective in all kinds of fever."—REV. M. G. GOLDSMITH,
Hyderabad (Dec.).

HOW EAST MEETS WEST.

"I wish to point out that I have been taking the medicine for some time for malaria and it has done me very great good."

K. C. MEHTA,
Christ's College, Cambridge,
England.

DONE ITS WORK IN ALL CASES.

"I have given both Europeans and natives some of this wonderful medicine and in all cases it has done its work and cured them. Some of them were surprised by the wonderful quick cure and others wish to obtain this medicine."

J. H. WICKHAM,
Traffic Supdt., R. N. R.,
Delhi.

PAR EXCELLENCE!

"I have tried it on many of my friends when in Madras and found it a medicine par excellence especially in cases of severe type of Influenza and Malarial fever.

T. E. ANDERSON,
Batu Road,
Kuala Lumpur, F. M. S.

NO DOUBT AS TO THAT.

"This medicine is used in our Mill two years since and in one dose the fever is stopped wonderfully. This medicine is effective in all kinds of fever, there is no doubt as to that."

J. H. THOOTHEE, Manager,
Hathising Mi

Normal Eyes Never ACHE!

THE every-day strain on your eyes is enormous. If your eyes quickly become tired—if they ache or smart at times, they are probably defective. You may still be able to see fairly well, but pain indicates the presence of eye-strain.

Glasses would bring real rest, comfort and safety to your eyes. Have your sight carefully examined, and correct glasses adapted.

Our perfected methods enable us to fit glasses which are scientifically exact in every detail.
